Letter from Obadiah Fox Gathright to Milton H. Gathright
There is no proof Mary Collins was the daughter of James and Caty Croom Collins but this letter offers clues. In the letter, dated 4/24/1841, Obadiah stated he was living with Benjamin F. Collins (son of old Moses) in Tippah Co. MS. Said Moses was a full (1st) cousin to their mother (Mary Collins Gathright). Said they had two uncles living in Greene Co. AL (Daniel Collins, Major Croom Collins) and one (James Collins) who died a few years ago.
Mentioned Mrs. Cheatham who died in Athens, GA, as a relative (Mary Winright Collins, dau of Leven and Catherine Odom Collins). This Leven Collins was the bondsman when she married Miles Gathright on 8/29/1795 in Richmond Co. GA.

Dear Susan:

I certainly owe you an apology for being so slow to answer your last letter. It came when I was fighting a lad bout with influenza and I set it aside until I could concentrate letter on all the valuable information you sent from Mr. Howell's look.

I don't have a date or place for Mary Collins' Birth, But I know she died before 7 Sep 1818, and after 8 Oct 1817 when she was "administratrix for Miles Gathright, dec'd", according to Georgia court records. The Jackson County records are gite detailed in 1818, when William H. Gathright Brought the younger orphans of Miles Gathright to his home to raise.

The will of James Collins, 24 Nov 1788, names these children:

1. James Collins, Ir. d. 1836, Greene Co. GA

2. Eliaabeth Collins, m. Benjamin Toney

3. Lydia Collins, m. Benjamin Fudge, RichmondCo, GA

4. John Collins

5. Major Croom Collins m. Mary Triplett, Richmond Co. GA

6. Mary Collins m. Miles H. Gathright, Richmond Co. GA

7. Susannah Collins m. William Speed, Richmond Co. GA

8. Daniel Collins

9. William Wainwright Collins

This is from information from Mrs. Saunders' research.

Mrs. Faye Saunders 425 E. Lafayette Fayetteville, Arkansas 72701

Mrs. Saunders was compiling records of Wallace, Collins, and Croom families several years ago. The look is probably published by now. I believe I will get a copy of it as well as the one on the Gathrights by Mr. Howell.

In your family group sheets, I only have information on the children of Miles Gathright and Many Collins. There are some differences, but I can't be sure which is correct.

- 1. James Collins Gathright I corresponded with two of his decendents who said he was born in Milledgeville, GA.
- 4. Louise Anna (?) Her marriage date is 30 Oct 1825 in Jackson county Marriages.

5. Mariah or Marian?

- 6. Oladiah Fox (my grandfather) His tombstone in Toccopola, MS says l. 17Mar 1811, d. 9 Nov 1877. I have no information on his first wife, except that she and a child were luried on his farm in Oxford, MS. He married mygrandmother, Elizabeth
- Thankful Anderson, 14 Apr 1859. 10.William Croan- Ihave his marriage 26 Oct 1837, Will proved 10 Jun 1

A FAMILY HISTORY

THE COLLINS, ODOM, ALLEN,

WEST AND RELATED FAMILIES

BY EVELYN BERGMAN EVANS

Sam Houston Regional Library & Research Center FM RD 1011 P.O. Box 310 Liberty, Tx 77575

This is the story of a family. It is such a record as to be of primary interest to the members of that particular family. We have among our forefathers people who have contributed in the making America what it is today, men who have defended their loved ones, their homes with great sacrifices; women who have heroically brought their families into the world; and children who lived to maturity enduring hardships and discomforts of the early pioneer. To those whose names are woven into the history of our country, we point with pride. There are those whose lives have never been recorded. Their contribution to our history is important, and the lives of those, the unsung heroes, will be remembered only as we, their descendants, preserve it.

This Collins family has been most frustrating to the many who have attempted to solve the puzzle of the various relationships.

Elizabeth A. Collins, daughter of Lewis Collins and Martha Allen and granddaughter of Levin Collins and Catherine Odom, married her second or third cousin, Jesse Collins, son of John Collins and (Martha Britt). Moses Collins was the uncle of Jesse Collins, son of John Collins and (Martha Britt). Although we have many records, not one establishes the elusive parents of Levin Collins, John Collins and Moses Collins! The puzzle remains unsolved!

I am sending my records to the binder, incomplete in the beginning and incomplete to the end. However, time is passing and I must submit what work I have, and just hope that the mature years of the younger generation will lead them into an interest into the past of their forefathers. I hope others will succeed where I have failed.

I apologize for the errors made in copying some of the material. The old records that were obtained from the National and State Archives and from county courthouses, I have tried to copy exactly as written. The typed copies were copied as interpreted by the typist. The copies of photostats are true copies to the best of my ability. Some of the records sent to me by my fellow workers had been copied and recopied from handwritten copies, and I am sure that errors have been made. For these and human errors made by me, I beg your understanding.

The state of the s

This compilation is certainly not all my work by any means! So many people have contributed the fruits of their genealogical labor!

Mrs. H. C. Sharman most generously shared her material with me. The Palmer family and many Collins and other records were contributed by her. Mrs. Virginia Lidwin, now deceased, made her voluminous material available to Mrs. Sharman, who in turn shared with me.

Mrs. Harry Lee O'Bannon, Jr. was most helpful with the O'Bannon and Odom family connections. Mrs. J. N. C. Moffat, Jr. compiled the family sheets for the Benjamin F. Collins descendants and contributed other research. Mrs. Frederick P. Blanks prepared the Mary E. Collins Payne records and also contributed Moses Collins records. Dr. Alvin O. Collins and Mr. Joe Shaw worked diligently on the Moses Collins research. Mr. Curtis Rushing contributed the Martha Collins McBryde descendants. To these and the many, many who cooperated in sending family record sheets, I am most grateful and appreciative. I must not omit expressing my appreciation to my husband's cousin, Mrs. J.H. Tabb, who was my most gracious hostess when I made a "family digging" trip to Mississippi. To all of you, I thank you most sincerely.

An Irish Collins is reported to have emigrated to America in 1635 and in 1636 we find that Edward Collins registered his family coat of arms in Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Patrick A. Collins was one of Boston's most respected and honored mayors, serving from 1902 to 1905. A statue to his memory stands today on Boston's Commonwealth Avenue.

The name Collins can also be English in origin and in such instances the name is a diminutive pet form of the personal name Nicholas.

A Colinus de Andresia was recorded in Berkshire in 1196 and a John Collins was found in records for Devonshire in 1221.

LEVIN COLLINS

The Comment of the Co

Levin Collins was born about 1750 probably in South Carolina and died in Richmond County, Georgia August 25, 1806. He was married about 1775 in South Carolina to Ann Catherine Odom, daughter of Benjamin and Tamer Odom.

The first record of Levin Collins in Richmond County, Georgia is shown in the purchase of land in 1792 from William and Charity

Lee. (Deed Book C, Page 394) This land, 350 acres on Spirit Creek, was sold to Samuel Way, August 2, 1802. Caty Collins signed this deed with John Way and Seybert Odom as witnesses. (Deed Book H. Page 295) An old family Bible of Catherine L. Collins, daughter of Levin Collins and his wife Catherine Odom, gives the date of the death of Levin Collins. The same source gives June 27, 1823 as the death date of Catherine Odom Collins.

Caty Collins was appointed administrator of the estate of Levin Collins on March 4, 1807 in Richmond County, Georgia. William Cowles and John Collins signed as securities. Buyers at the estate sale on November 26, 1807 were: Lewis, Moses Collins, Sarah Collins and James Collins. Memorandum of goods sold on this date sworn to in open court January 7, 1811 and signed "in right of my wife formerly Mrs. Collins." B. Wright, Caty Wright, formerly Caty Collins.

Benjamin Wright and Catherine Odom Collins, widow of Levin Collins were married September 15, 1808 in Richmond County, Georgia.

After his death she married Joel Dorsey and lived in Jefferson County, Georgia.

On the same day of her marriage to Benjamin Wright, Catherine

Sam Houston Regional Library & Research Center FM RD 1011 P.O. Box 310 Liberty, Tx 77575 Collins gave one slave to each of her daughters: Sarah Jane Collins, Mary Whenright Collins and Caty Louise Collins. This deed was Witnessed by William Cowles, Anna Cowles and Seybert Odom. (Book M, Page 100)

On December 28, 1813 in Richmond County, Georgia, Benjamin Wright, William Mathews, Lewis Collins, Elijah Johnson, John Way and Anthony R. Cheatham, heirs and representives of Levin Collins, deceased, of Richmond County, Georgia Sold 2 lots in Augusta to Bird Martin for $1000. Witnesses were Joshua Sego, John Tinley and William A. Bugg, J. P. In addition to the six above men signing this deed, their wives also signed as follows: Catherine Wright, Catherine Mathews, Martha Collins, Sarah Johnson, Elizabeth Way and Mary Whenright Cheatham. (Deed Book N, Page 2)

The state of the s

Levin Collins and Joseph Collins were named executors in the will of James Collins of Winton County, South Carolina which was recorded January 9, 1790. Levin, Joseph and James Collins are believed to have been brothers. It is probable that Levin Collins had brothers Moses and George and perhaps others. As with many families there were so many men of the same name, it is most difficult to make identifications.

Levin Collins was a Revolutionary War soldier from South Carolina and many of his descendants have become DAR members on his service.

THE ODOM FAMILY

It is believed by some researchers that Benjamin Odom, Sr. was the son of Abraham Odom and that this family descends from William Odean who died in Norfolk County, Virginia before 16 February 1622, the date his/will was proved.

Benjamin Odom, Sr. was deceased before 1792 in Colleton County, South Carolina, adjoining Barnwell County. Records show that he furnished supplies to the military during the Revolution and there are many receipts from officers who obtained supplies, mainly for General Henderson's Regiment. Some receipts are from Captain Edward Myles, John Lemacks, Daniel Shaw, Francis Carlisle for Pickens Brigade.
Among his children were George Odom, Thomas Odom, Elizabeth Odom, Daniel Odom, Seybert Odom and Benjamin Odom, Jr. It is probably that Uriah
Odom was also a son. These children are not listed in order of birth.

George Odom, son of Benjamin Odom, Sr. lived in Barnwell County, South Carolina. His will was proved in Barnwell County on October 1, 1839. His wife, Sarah Robinson, was deceased at that time. His will named his four children: George R. Odom, Allen Madison Odom, Sarah Mathney and Lucy D. Peebles. He mentioned 3000 acres of land on Little Saltcraker bought from William Smith, Jacob Hutto and Charles Milhouse.
An equity bill filed January 30, 1843 and June 27, 1843 reads "whereas George Odom died in 1839 leaving a will dated December 28, 1830 - Testator lived several years after signing will and accumulated much property undevised by will." (See Sarah Matheney vs John W. Matheney, et al and John W. Matheney & Wife vs Benj. F. Peoples et al)

Daniel Odom, son of Benjamin Odom, Sr., also resided in Barnwell County, South Carolina. His will was proved October 20, 1840 in that county. His wife was Elizabeth Odom and his children: John D. Odom, Mary (Polly) Grimes, Harriet Rice and Rebecca Brewton (Bruton). His will also listed a grandson, John D. Grimes. Names George Odom as brother.

Thomas Odom, son of Benjamin Odom, Sr., was also residing in Barnwell County, South Carolina. I do not have a record of his will but it was probably recorded in that county. Thomas and George Odom were appointed to administer the estate of their brother, Benjamin Odom, Jr. in Parnwell County in 1801.

Elizabeth Odom, daughter of Benjamin Odom, Sr., was born about 1762 in Barnwell District, South Carolina. She married Benjamin Zackary, son of William Zackary, and they joined the great migration to the west following the Revolutionary War. In 1810 they were living in Pike County, Mississippi. In 1843 Benjamin Zackary was deceased and his widow was living just across the state line in Washington Parish, Louisiana. A daughter, Cynthia Zackary, was born about 1790. Elizabeth Odom Zackary was listed in the will of her brother, George Odom, "his sister Elizabeth Zackary to have $75.00 per year as long as she lives." On December 18, 1843 she gave a power of attorney to Angus Patterson of Barnwell County, South Carolina to act in matters relating to the estate of her brother, George Odom.

Elizabeth Odom Zackary told her grandchildren many stories and incidents which occurred during the Revolutionary War. South Carolina was the scene of much civil war, guerilla action and atrocities inflicted by Tory commander "Killing Bill Cunningham" and his raiders. Family tradition relates that Elizabeth Odom Zackary carried from the war for all her life, scars of torture on her arms. She is said to have assisted her brothers who were serving in the war, Cynthia Zackary, daughter of Elizabeth Odom and Benjamin Zackary, married John P. Collins, son of Zackary Collins and Sarah Palmer. A daughter of this marriage, Nancy Collins, married Edmund Hunt.

Benjamin Odom, Jr. was born about 1745 and died in Barnwell County, South Carolina in 1800-1. His estate was administered January 5, 1801 with the consent of his widow, Tamar Odom and by his brothers, Thomas and George Odom. There was a large estate consisting of land, slaves and other property. There are several deeds on file in Barnwell County concerning the distribution among the heirs of the estate. Book 3, pages 115 and 219 contain this information. The names of the daughters are shown in other deeds. A power of attorney signed February 6, 1804 for Gideon Hagood, Darling Peebles, Gasper Trotti, Lawrence Trotti and George Latham to divide the Benjamin Odom estate among the heirs. The heirs were: Tamar Odom, the widow to have one third; Levin Collins, residing in the State of Georgia to have one share in right of his wife, Catherine Collins, nee Odom; James Collins, residing in Barnwell County to have one share in right of his wife, Mary Collins, nee Odom; Lydia Odom, residing in Barnwell County, South Carolina to have one share in her own right (She died about 1835.); Dorcas Collins, nee Odom and Lee, and now deceased - Her heirs to have one share and all residing in Georgia - Lewis Lee, the 1st husband and now deceased and one child, Mrs. Sarah Durett, nee Lee, to have one portion - Joseph Collins, the 2nd husband of Dorcas and living in Georgia and two children: Mary (Polly) Collins and Catherine (Caty) Collins, each to have one portion; John A. O'Bannon, residing in Barnwell County, South Carolina to have one share in right of his wife, Sarah O'Bannon, nee Odom; Mary (Polly) Odom to have one share in the right of her deceased father.

It appears that Benjamin Odom, Jr. had only one son who left no male descendants and thus ended the Odom name of his line.

Mrs. Tamar Odom made her will May 21, 1808 and it was probated January 1809 in Barnell County, South Carolina. (File 3-14). The witnesses were George Odom, Seybert Odom and Mary Smith. Deed Book D, page 434 in Barnwell County records a deed of gift signed May 21, 1808 by Tamar Odom, "to my daughter Lydia Odom all my dower in the lands of my deceased husband, Benjamin Odom. When Lydia dies, this dower will go to the children of James and Mary Collins." Witnesses: William Steed and James Collins figure of a weeping woman augusting it. Time, with its blasts of wind and rain and snow, has rellowed it, but all the elements not worn it. The smallest det ond the inscriptions plain. Moses Collins is no legendary figure, though vague tales of the then fabulous wealth he posted would give credence to such, Ho evidently was a rich man, because inc monument marking his grave, brought here by ox cart from the St. Louis firm, L. H. and J, B. Fuller, without doubt cost hundreds of dollars,

Moses Collins was born in Barnwell District, S. C., October 22, 1785, 152 years ago. The known story of his life is not a detailed one. From South Carolina he made his way westward to Alabama, at what age is not known. History records that he came to Mississippi when his son Elijah was young. . Whatever the date, he was one of the citizens at Abertson Indian trading post, which was laid out in 1886, two miles north of . where New Albany now stands. That settlement lavished for a time, because the Indians had money from the sale of their land. Booker Foster and Moses Collins prospered as merchants there.

But the Indians must have left this part of the country, for 1840 found Moses Collins building a grist and saw mill on the banks of the Tallahatchie at the present site of New Albany.

That New Albany had its be beginning then and there is the concensus of opinion. New Albany was the head of flatboat navigation on the river, and the settlement of Albertson moved here. Collins estabilshed the first industry and thus probably presaged the location for a new settlement.

History has it that his son, I. R., gave the village which sprang up, so suddenly its name, and logic ler.ds much support to that fact. Moses Collins in 1840 was a man of 55 with probably numerous business interests. It is not unlikely that he would turn over the responsibility of an additional business to a son.

Moses Collins lived until March 14, 1858, amid plenty. And when he died, at the age of 72, the inschiption on his monument was and is today: Remember youth as you pass by As you are now so must you be.

Prepare for death and follow me."

Dear Candace,

Thank you for the information. Clayton Library has a copy of Mary Collins Landin's book. Years ago I went to the Sam Houston Regional Library in Liberty and found additional information on the Collins and Odom lines.

My adopted mother had a Collins line. Her great-great grand mother was Lois Collins who married George Gayden and went to Amite Co. MS. Lois' great grand father was Joseph Collins: 1685-1748, of King & Queen Co. VA, who married Catherine Robertson. So she and Leonard were 7th cousins, 2 generations removed.

Enclosed are copies of all the information I have to date on the Gathright, Collins, Odom and Croom lines. I would appreciate your sending me Sallie Gathright's line. If you can add to what I have, would appreciate that too. I think the Leven Collins who signed the marriage certificate was the son of Samuel, James' brother. My research shows Major Croom did not have a daughter Catey. Is she named in his will?

Connie is a member of Colonial Dames. I am working on the Ephrain Gathright line but running into trouble. The Compendium of American Genealogy is not acceptable as proof. Leonard has many ancestors in Henrico County - Burton, Baugh, Farrar, FArris, Price and Woodson. Some were neighbors of or married into the Gathright family.

Enclosed is the Probate record. Isabel sent it to me. Clayton Library is one of the top genealogy libraries in the United States. I live just 7 minutes from it. I will be glad to work with you, Isabel & Cynthia to expand the Gathright and Related Lines. Maybe we can publish a book someday.

I have many years experience putting together DAR & Colonial Dames lines. If I can help you with your proof will be gland to do so.

Sincerely.

Mrs. M. Leonard Green

Moses Collins

Moses Collins was born October 21, 1785, in the Orangeburg District, South Carolina. As of April 19, 1977, the names of his parents are not known. His father was probably John Collins, Stephen Collins, or Joseph Collins. The evidence supports a theory that John Collins was the father, but after some 70 years of family research no evidence has been found to either prove or disprove the theory.

Moses Collins was married January 18, 1810, to Mrs. Elizabeth Smith Houpt in Augusta, Georgia. She was previously married to Philip Houpt on April 11, 1804, in Richmond County, Georgia.

Moses Collins is credited with founding New Albany, Mississippi, the county seat of Union Co., but at that time it was in Tippah Co.

Moses Collins died on March 14, 1858, at New Albany, Mississippi, and is buried at the New Albany Cemetary in that city.

Elizabeth Smith Houpt Collins died in, probably, 1866, and is probably buried in a grave that exists alongside the Moses_Collins grave. The stone on that grave is unengrave.

Most information in this report is taken from The Story of Moses Collins, 1785-1858, and His Descendants, an uncopyrighted book written in 1974 by Dr. A.O. Collins. It is heavily documented and should be studied by anyone doing research into the Moses Collins family.

A. O. Collins 7902 Edgemoor Houston, Texas 77036

January 11, 1997

James M. Steinwinder, Jr. P. O. Box 524 Gautier, MS 39553

Dear Jim.

As you well know, I am not very good about working with my genealogical material these days, but I do appreciate your sending me things from time to time. Now that Christmas is behind me and another project is finished, I am where I can answer your most recent letter of November 25 in which you enclosed plats of acreage owned by the Collins family in the Pascagoula area.

I probably have sent this to you.... I just don't remember, but I am enclosing the sheets that I have of Moses Collins and his children who came to that area. You will note that this Moses Collins had a son named Moses, Jr., also a daughter, Hannah, who married Samuel Williams, both of whom have property on the map you sent.

This is NOT my Moses Collins, but I feel strongly that he is an UNCLE of my Moses Collins who came into north Mississippi, as these families were together in the Augusta, Georgia area at the same time earlier. If I have already sent this information to you, you may do with it what you please. The family sheets have been added to, changed, etc. through the years, but most of the information is legible.

I appreciate your interest, and hope to stay in touch.

Sincerely,

A. O. Collins

P. J. If you note Corrections that need to be mode - det me tenow - with your sources.

JOSEPH COLLINS

(-1757)

Joseph Collins was probably born in the last decade of the seventeenth century. The place of his birth has not been determined.

In 1718 he was living on a tract of land along the border between Essex and King and Queen counties, Virginia.² On 21 June 1722 a suit brought against him by Thomas Waring was dismissed.³ About this time one of his Negro boys ran away and was taken up by Thomas Barker.⁴ In 1724 he served on a jury ⁵ and also gave evidence for Nicholas Davis in suit against John Pickett.⁶ On 21 August 1728 judgment was granted against him in favor of Thomas Waring, Sheriff of Essex County.⁷

Joseph Collins of Essex County, planter, on 16-17 May 1737 sold to Nicholas Pampline a tract of 200 acres in Essex and King and Queen counties.⁸ He was then preparing to move to Spotsylvania County, where he had settled by 17 January 1738/39 when the Essex County Court ordered that Philip Gatewood pay him 495 pounds of tobacco for twice coming and returning seven miles from Spotsylvania County and for attending three days as an evidence for him against Thomas Johnson in a suit for assault and battery.⁹

Joseph Collins is first mentioned in the records of Spotsylvania County when the Court on 7 August 1739 ordered that his tithables be added to Rice Curtis, Jr.'s, list.¹⁰ On 2 October 1739 he was ordered by the Court to serve as overseer of the road from the river Po to the Pamunkey road.¹¹

On 14 April 1741 he purchased 400 acres in the forks of the Po River from John Robinson, Esquire. At this time he was described as a planter. He purchased an additional 254 acre tract in the fork and on the north side of the Po River from Robinson on 14 May 1745. On this land Joseph Collins operated a mill, to which a road was kept open by direction of the County Court.

Joseph Collins, Gent., on 6 December 1743 produced the Governor's commission and took the oath as lieutenant of a troop of horse under Capt. Joseph Hawkins. 15 On 6 November 1755 he presented his commission and took the oath as captain of a company of foot in the Spotsylvania County militia. 16

He was a member of the Grand Jury for Spotsylvania County and joined in bringing in presentments on 6 May 1746. On 8 February 1748/49 he and other: petitioned for a road to roll their tobacco through the land of James Gardner. The order for viewers to locate the most convenient way was continued for several courts and on 6 December 1749, when a report was returned, the old way then in the was declared to be the most convenient. 18

On 5 November 1754 Joseph Collins gave 272 acres on both sides of Robinson River to John Collins for love and affection. Two years later, on 6-7 December 1756, he was joined by his wife in selling 275 acres to Aaron Quesenburey. To

Lewis Collins, son of Joseph and Susannah (---) Collins, was born probably circa 1725/30.1

On 1 October 1751 he witnessed a deed made by his brother William and gave receipt for the purchase price.² He brought suit against James Jones on 9 February 1753, but by the time it came to trial, they had reached an agreement and the action was dismissed.³ On 6 March 1753 the Spotsylvania County Court ordered that Joseph Collins pay him 275 pounds of to-bacco for his attendance twelve days as an evidence for Joseph at the suit of Francis Tyler.⁴ William Collins brought suit against Lewis Collins on 3 July 1754 but they agreed the matter promptly.⁵

Lewis Collins married Elizabeth -.

After his father's death, he joined his brothers Wilham and Thomas on 13 November 1760 in conveying to their brother John their right in the estate. He had moved from Spotsylvania County to North Carolina by that time !

On a December 1760 Lewis Collins of Granville County, planter, received a land grant of 339 acres on both sides of the west fork of Grassy Creek in that county." He purchased 254 acres on both sides of Great Island Creek on 12 February 1761 on and on 14 August 1764 bought another 155 acres on both sides of Island Creek. He sold 172 acres of the original grant on Grassy Creek to William Acridge on S March 1763 of

Lewis Collins was a resident of the Island Creek section in the north east portion of Granville County. He was a constable in 1771. During this year he joined other inhabitants of Granville County in petitioning the North Carolina House of Representatives on two occasions. In one instance they requested that the agreements made by the Vestry of Granville Parish for the erection of two churches be set aside, they being unable as a result of already high taxes to meet the cost of more than £1200. The other petition protested the inclusion of free Negroes and mulatto women and the wives of free Negroes and mulattos as tithables, which "Your Petitioners Humbly Conceive is highly Derogatory of the Rights of Freeborn Suljects." 16

During the American Revolution he did not render military service, but he took the oath of allegiance to the State of North Carolina in Island Creek District on 22 May 1778."

He acquired considerable property. The total valuation as shown for tax purposes in 1780 was £6000. It ln 1782 he owned, in addition to 362 acres of land, ten slaves, five horses and twenty-six head of cattle, valued at £681.15.0.19

Chapter II

Moving West

The year 1852 found the Collins clan of Jones County, Mississippi deep in plans for a move to Texas. There were almost 2,200 people living in the county then and some of the younger generation wanted more land to move around on. Old Man Stacy Collins was a well-respected citizen of the community, having served as the first tax assessor of the county and more recently as captain of the militia. It was young Stacy who engineered the move and his younger brothers, Warren and Newton, were eager to accompany him. Stacy Senior and Sarah, his wife, decided to make the trip with them and to take twelve-year-old Edwin.

Going West was no new experience for the Collins, as Stacy Senior had left his native Spartanburg, South Carolina, early in life, had married in Georgia, and had made his way to Mississippi by 1813 or 1814. To these hardy folk, frontier existence was a way of life, and it presented no hardships or deprivations of which they were aware.

It must have been a curious caravan that left the piney woods of Mississippi and headed for the equally tall pines of East Texas. In the first ox-drawn wagon was the younger Stacy, leader of the party, accompanied by his wife and four children. Following in a second was the Senior Stacy (then sixty-six years old), his slightly younger wife, bachelors Warren and Newton, and twelve-year-old Edwin—who travelled nursing two little Jones County seedling poplar trees to plant in the alien Texas soil.

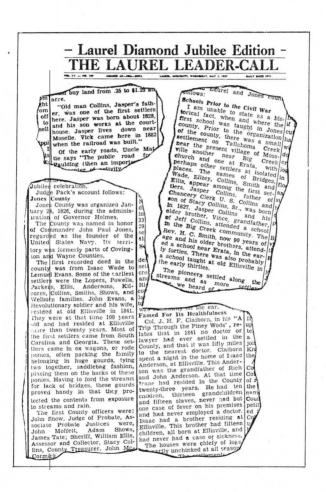

Homesites for the two families were selected north of what is now the town of Kountze in Hardin County. Homestead land grants were to be had for the asking, but the asking involved time and red tape. It was customary to simply "squat" on the desired land, then move on to more desirable land whenever they wished. The Collins group followed this practice.

After the homesite was selected, all went to work to build the log cabin and to clear land to raise corn, sweet potatoes, and vegetables for their own use. There were a few cows and chickens and the hogs could root around for acorns in the thicket. After a few years, the land would not produce so well; then they would move again because it was easier to clear some virgin land and build a new house than to rebuild the old soil.

As Christmas of 1854 approached, young Warren decided it was time to return to Mississippi and claim his sweetheart, a young woman with the romantic name of Tolitha Eboline Valentine. He managed to hitch a one-way ride with a man heading for Jones County, Mississippi, and he reached his old home after twenty-five days in the wagon. The wedding took place on December 19, 1854.

Through the generosity of a well-fixed brother who had remained in Mississippi, Warren was able to bring his bride to Texas in real style. Shortly after Christmas, they went down to Mobile, Alabama, where they boarded a steamship for the trip across the Gulf to Texas. The boat docked at Wallisville, in Chambers County, which left the newly-weds with only sixty miles between them and home. Next day they rented some horses and started the two-day trip home. Towards sundown they were hailed by a youngster who had been sent out by his parents to welcome travellers to spend the night. This was a friendly gesture of the pioneer days, when bed and board were traded for the news and a friendly evening of visiting.

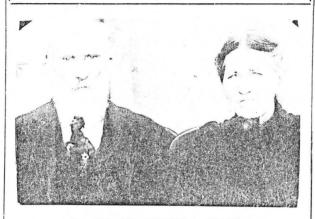

The young couple moved in with the elder Collins on the home place, known as the "Old Poplar Tree Place" (the poplar trees which Edwin brought from Mississippi). In October of the following year a daughter was born to Warren and Eboline, and named Mary Jane. Then, in rapid succession came Sara and Cynthia, followed by a spate of boys; finally, two more little girls came—making a total of eleven children, born over a twenty-two year period.

The seventh child born of the union of Eboline and Warren was to become the father of Carr P. Collins. Born on March 1, 1867, he was called Vinson Allen after the uncle who had provided young Warren with the money to take his bride to Texas. V. A. was a robust baby in the lean days of reconstruction and was promptly nicknamed "Yank," on the thinking that only a Yankee baby could be so plump and healthy.

From his mother, Yank inherited a mental, moral, and physical vigor that she had inherited from the fiery John Knox, of whom she was a direct descendant. From his father, he received the headstrong independence that seems to characterize the Collins of every generation.

It was fortunate for the welfare of the young family that Eboline's stern devotion to duty could be counted on to offset her husband's impetuousness which prompted moves from homesite to homesite without apparent thought for the future. According to Yank, it was his mother who kept the family of eleven well-fed and healthy. Warren was a frontiersman; he loved hunting and the outdoors, and earned himself the nickname of "Daniel Boone of the Big Thicket."

In 1877, when Yank was ten, the family moved to the town of Hardin, the county seat of Hardin County. Warren fancied that living in a town would put a public school education within easy access. He proposed to support his family with a blacksmith shop, while the ever-industrious Eboline took in boarders. But disillusionment dogged the family.

The first disappointment came when they learned that the schools were open only until funds ran out each year—usually after about two months; after that, the pupils had to pay tuition to continue. Unable to scrape together the required payments, the Collins clan always stopped school when public funds ran out. During the periods when they did attend school, they were always handicapped by lack of textbooks. The family library consisted of one "Blueback Speller", one "McGuffey's First Reader", one "McGuffey's Third Reader", and one "McGuffey's Fourth Reader"—not even enough to provide one book per child, even when distributed without regard to age, grade, or subject.

The second disappointment was the realization that the blacksmith shop was a losing proposition. Warren eventually abandoned it completely, and turned to the emergency expedient of contracting for whatever manual labor was available. By this time the four older Collins boys, including Yank, were big enough to do a man's work.

As soon as they were old enough, the boys got jobs at the local sawmill where they could earn more than on contract jobs. Warren always collected all wages from the boys as a matter of course. While this must have rankled in the heart of the boys who had been doing "man's" work since they were twelve, they apparently accepted their father's authority without question.

The wages and money earned on the contracts provided the family with sufficient money to eat and buy clothes. Warren even went so far as to buy Eboline a new cook stove and washing machine. Everything was fine except that on the contract work, Warren and the boys had to camp out at the job and Eboline and the girls were left at home. Warren decided that they should all move back to the farm together and proceeded to buy some land up on Cypress Creek near Woodville.

The new farm soon proved to be excellent hog and cattle range and by the second year they had over one hundred hogs. Warren gave eight of them to Yank, who felt really important as a man of property.

It was the hogs that caused the break between Yank and his father or "Pa". As the patriarch of the family, Warren felt that everything belonged to him. But when he made Yank kill his hogs, the youngster packed his few belongings in a flour sack and left home to go to work on his brother-in-law's farm. Here he worked for seven months at $10 a month and saved every dime of it so that he could go back to school someday. Fortunately, the public school near his home got enough money for an eight-month session and his mother talked him into coming home. But Pa and Yank were still feuding, so in the Collins way, when Yank said he would pay for his board if he stayed at home, Warren responded by charging him every bit he had earned during those seven months.

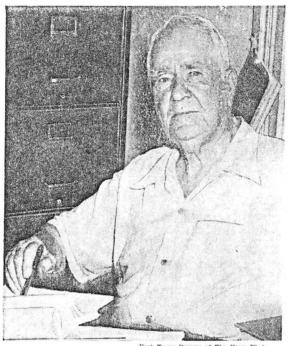

Yank, about nineteen now, 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighing close to 200 pounds, would march into the one room schoolhouse to take his seat with the other fourth graders. He was serious and intent on his studies and before the term was out, the teacher suggested that Yank apply for a teacher's certificate.

Bolstered by his teacher's confidence in him, and looking braver than he felt, Yank applied and was appointed teacher of an isolated country school in Polk County. Having assured himself of the position, he applied to stand the examination for a teacher's certificate. Borrowing a pony, Yank rode to Livingston (county seat of Polk County) where he passed the examination—much to his delight and somewhat to his private surprise.

His salary at the Polk County school was $35 per month, roughly half what he could have made at the sawmill. Yank's appointment as a school teacher was his introduction into the professional world—a symbol of independence from the poverty of dirt farming and the gruelling hours of sawmill labor. It started him on a career that led into law, politics, and an introduction to a most remarkable and beautiful girl—Elizabeth Steadman Hopkins.

Probably the greatest influence on Collins' life has been his zeal for prohibition. He still thinks failure of the Eighteenth Amendment was due to indifference of public officeholders and believes, in time, national prohibition will return.

The Ballas Morning Nems

Chapter III

A Good School

Lizzie Hopkins Collins was descended from Southern plantation stock. She had never been allowed to forget her proud heritage, even though the fortunes of the War Between the States had reduced the family from Alabama aristocracy to the status of East Texas pioneer farmers. Her father, partially crippled by a Yankee bullet, carried this tradition forward by his uncompromising stand against "working" his daughters in the fields.

Lizzie was a beautiful young woman—slender and erect with an oval face topped with short, curly brown hair. Her dark brown eyes were alert, luminous and penetrating, gazing with uncompromising directness. The nose was small and straight; she had a firm but loving mouth, and the determined set of the jaw was unmistakable.

She was always a gay and happy young thing, full of mischief and life as she laughed and flirted with the young men who sought her company.

One afternoon in 1887 while Yank was teaching school at Mt. Hope, he sat watching a buggy approach. It turned out to be Johnny Hopkins, teacher of the school at Enon, who had come to pay a call with his sisters—Lizzie and Genie. Yank had met Johnny before, but it was the first time he had seen the sisters.

"I shook hands," recalls Yank, "and we sat down and began to talk. Lizzie was a pretty good talker and could get in a sentence every now and then in nearly any conversation. We talked and I knew she was an awfully pretty girl and that she pleased me very much."

A few weeks later at a Saturday night gathering, Yank made up his mind that the pretty, vivacious Lizzie Hopkins was the girl for him.

Through coincidence, Yank's school closed and he was appointed teacher of the Enon school where Johnny Hopkins had just resigned in order to take a logging contract.

Lizzie and Genie were living with Johnny at Enon in a building behind the home of a Mrs. Seamon. Lizzie was doing the cooking for the three of them and for two additional boarders. Alert to the opportunity, Yank arranged to room in Mrs. Seamon's home and to board with the Hopkins household. It was an ideal arrangement for a successful courtship.

Every morning he had an hour to visit with Lizzie before school time, and after school he would hurry home to lounge in the kitchen and talk with Lizzie while she prepared supper. Within two months he had proposed—but she, true to her traditions of ladylike reluctance, refused to give him an immediate answer. The answer finally came and was "Yes."

The wedding was set for June 26, 1889, at the home of the bride's parents in Moscow, Texas. The groom, penniless as always, borrowed a horse and buggy from a sympathetic preacher to make the wedding trip to Moscow. After friends and neighbors gathered on the front porch of the little frame house, the circuitriding Methodist preacher arrived from Livingston and performed the ceremony.

For the honeymoon, Yank took his bride down to Hardin County to show her off and let her meet his parents, brothers and sisters. From there the newly-weds proceeded to Big Sandy, where Yank had contracted to teach school in the fall.

School had just started when Yank fell ill with yellow jaundice, but he refused to admit the seriousness of the sickness. Now that he had assumed the responsibility for a wife, the $50 a month he received as schoolmaster was more indispensable than ever. It was then that Lizzie's determination, intellectual capacity and education asserted itself for the first time. On the days when Yank was unable to drag himself to the classroom, Lizzie would teach for him. Together, they managed to fulfill Yank's contract for a period of several months.

Yank's condition remained unimproved. At last he became convinced that only through outdoor living could he regain his health. So, sadly, the couple said goodbye to the school they had struggled so hard to keep open, and Yank went to work in a lumber camp. Wages were good, but shopping had to be done at the company store where prices were so high that saving money was impossible. Gradually, though, Yank's health returned and he received a teaching appointment at Chester where Lizzie's folks had moved.

They bought a little two-room house in Chester for $150. This period in Chester probably was the most tranquil one of their entire married life; they were in their own home, Yank's job paid well, and they had no responsibilities except to each other.

Lizzie was ambitious for her husband, seeing in him abilities and capacities of which he was not aware. Gently but firmly she planted in his mind the desire to gain a college education, and then began to press for an early fulfillment of the desire. Quite reasonably, Yank pointed out that going to school without income was an impossibility.

"There's a good school over at Huntsville," she told him, "It's a state school and there's no tuition. I could keep boarders and make some money while you go to school. Go on over to Huntsville and find us a house."

Bowing to the indomitable will of this amazing young woman, Yank boarded a train for Huntsville. He found a house that seemed to meet the requirements, rented it, and moved in with his wife in preparation for his education at Sam Houston State Teachers College.

To fill his home with boarders, Yank employed an unorthodox but highly-successful technique. As students began to arrive for the school year, Yank stationed himself on the road outside of town and literally buttonholed the new arrivals to offer them the hospitality of his home at a reasonable price. He was a convincing salesman, for he lined up the requisite six boarders in less than a day at his post.

Shortly after school started Lizzie discovered that she was pregnant. She already had lost one baby, and both she and Yank faced the birth of the new baby with considerable doubt and fear—the only time when Lizzie ever seemed to have been afraid of anything. Nevertheless she ran the boarding house until two weeks before the baby was due, then Yank took her to Chester so that she could be with her mother.

All went well. Labor was brief, the baby was healthy and Lizzie was fine. Yank returned to classes soon after and was still able to earn a place on the college honor roll for the year. Yank was proud to announce that he was the father of a son, named Carr Pritchett in honor of the college president.

Chapter IV

The Gold Watch

The second year at Huntsville began much like the preceding one, although now Lizzie's duties included caring for the baby Carr, as well as taking care of a houseful of paying guests.

Finances remained a problem; every month Yank and Lizzie fell a little farther behind in rent and grocery payments. Yank's discouragement grew, but Lizzie's faith that they would somehow complete the year never faltered. Convinced that if Yank left school now he would never return, she refused to give ear to his repeated protests that he could not possibly remain. Between Lizzie's unyielding determination and credit extended by the grocer and landlord, Yank was able to get back to his studies.

The end of the school year brought Yank's completion of the two-year normal course—and his graduation with honors. His diploma made him an educated man and he was already a teacher of considerable background and experience. School positions were readily available, and the pay was more substantial than before.

In December Lizzie presented her husband with a second little boy, whom they called Halley Houston, in honor of a popular member of the faculty of the college at Huntsville. Separated in age by only a year and a half, Carr and Hal grew up as inseparable companions.

By 1897, Yank was principal of a school in Grand Saline and his reputation as an educator was so well established that ten or twelve youngsters from his home area made application to attend the school. His improved finances enabled him to build a large frame house, which served as a home for the family and a dormitory for the boarding students. Once again Lizzie was back at her work as mistress of a boarding house.

In April of 1900, Lizzie gave birth to her third boy. The boy appeared healthy, but the gallant mother never regained her strength. In less than two weeks she was dead—four months short of her thirtieth birthday.

The effect on her family was devastating. Lizzie had been the pivot around whom all their lives had revolved; her strength of character and buoyancy had given direction to the whole pattern of their existence. Life without her was inconceivable.

Arrangements for burial were made in the Mt. Hope Cemetery near Chester, where her father was buried, and Yank with his two boys made the sad trip home. The baby boy was left in the care of Dr. Kuykendall who had delivered him, but before the end of the summer the baby also had died.

There seemed no respite from disaster. Hal barely survived a serious illness and operation that same year, and the father decided that the two youngsters would be better off with female relatives who could give them a mother's care. It was over two years before he could make a home for them again.

During this period, they seldom saw their father. Having made up his mind to become a lawyer, Yank "read" in the office of a Beaumont attorney, passed the bar examination, and even entered politics by campaigning actively for one of the candidates for district attorney. When his candidate won, he was rewarded with an appointment as assistant district attorney.

In December of 1902 he remarried, and in the spring of the following year brought the boys home to Beaumont to live with him and their step-mother. Already the boys were showing signs of their mother's initiative. Both Carr and Hal were up at four o'clock every morning to sell newspapers on the street. Newspapers sold for five cents, and the newsboys bought them at two-and-one-half cents each, with extras non-returnable. Competition was stiff and $1.25 a day was considered good pay for a hard day's work.

Much of the time from their mother's death until 1907, when Carr was fifteen, he and Hal lived with relatives in the country.

The longest and happiest association during these years was with the family of his mother's sister, Nancy Barnes, and her husband Jasper.

"Uncle Jap" was a farmer with a well-run and prosperous farm and an orderly and pleasant family life. The place was overrun with children, and four of them were boys similar in age to Carr and Hal. The Barnes were generous, warm-hearted guardians, and favors or treats given their sons were shared equally with the cousins from Beaumont.

Even at this age, Carr was a serious, diligent, industrious youngster, with occasional bursts of generosity and flashes of impetuousity. Once he exploded a 44. shell in his own face when he tried to force it into the 38. rifle with which he was squirrel hunting. His cousin, Austin Barnes, said he looked like a "guinea egg" after the near-tragedy and it is a wonder it did not disfigure him for life.

Carr and Hal were always close. Once when Hal wanted to make an impression of elegance on a rural belle, of whom they both were enamoured, Carr stepped aside in his brother's favor—going so far as to lend him a treasured gold watch and chain.

Hal and Carr Collins.

Since Hal possessed an identical timepiece, his brother's generosity enabled him to appear before the girl gloriously arrayed —not in one but two gold watches and chains exactly alike. The impression on the girl is not recorded, but the over-all effect must have been electrifying.

The recollections of those early days by the Collins brothers and their Barnes cousins are happy ones that create an over-all image of robust, normal country life at the turn of the century; the boys spent their time plowing the fields, chopping cotton, roaming the piney woods, squirrel hunting, treeing possums at night, deer hunting for two or three days on the Neches River, and fishing for catfish in whatever muddy water was handy.

There was an incident during this time which shows Carr's early faculty to decide and to act. Clyde Barnes was seriously sick, and four doctors worked about the youth's bed in a last-ditch effort to save his life. Carr, hovering nearby, heard one of the doctors say that they needed a certain medicine in the office of one of the doctors several miles away. Before anyone realized it, Carr had saddled his cow-pony and galloped away through a blinding rainstorm to secure the needed medicine. He made the trip in time, and soon Clyde began to get better and finally recovered completely.

In 1907 Carr was fifteen and had completed the highest grade offered by the school in Chester. It was now up to him to do his part, so he passed the examination for a country teacher's certificate and contracted to teach a little country school.

The fledgling schoolmaster must have been an interesting figure; he literally wore his first long pants on the day he applied for the position. It was an interesting term at that school. Many in the class were bigger than the teacher and one in particular was a long-haired country bully who was always disrupting class. One day the bully's acting up was more than the Collins temper could take. The bully realized that he had gone too far and made for the door with Carr chasing right after him. The only mistake was that when Carr caught the culprit he did not have the faintest idea what to do with him.

Youthful and inexperienced though he was, Carr completed two school terms, then resigned and went home to Beaumont to live with his father and stepmother. He had wisely decided that his education was not complete. Perhaps it was that knowledge which symbolized his new adulthood more than did his ability to teach a country school successfully.

The Collins name is to be found in most portions of the United States. Our particular branch can be traced back to Captain Joseph Collins. Most of the information we have of him is from the Records of Spotsylvania County, Virginia; such as dates of birth, marriage, acquisition of property, doweries, wills, and parishes of burial. The story of their establishment of homes and communities and of their defense against the Indians is often thrilling and dramatic.

Of Joseph Collins, who died in August, 1757, we only know that he married a girl whose given name was Susannah and that she died after 1768. In part, Joseph's will states: "Wife, Susannah Collins, to have estate real and personal, during her widowhood, at remarriage to be sold at auction and the money arising from the sale to be divided among sons: James, William, Thomas, Lewis; and daughters: Amy Woodson, Margaret Brockman, Susanna Gatson, Tabitha Gatewead. She was married on December 23, 1894 in Arlington to Townsand Bailey, who was born March 9, 1855 in Lynchburg, Tennessee, and died December 11, 1936 in Arlington. The children of Ida Collins and Townsand Bailey are listed as follows:

- 1. Nell Bailey, born February 29, 1896 in Mansfield, Tarrant County, Texas, and married on July 16, 1915 in Arlington, Tarrant County, Texas, to James Ralph Ashley, who was born August 30, 1895 in Boonesville, Indiana, and is a railroad man.
- 2. Maude Bailey, born June 20, 1897 in Arlington, Tarrant County, Texas. She is an officer of a bank in Fort Worth, Texas, and maintained a home with her mother in Arlington, Texas.

Sophrona Ellean Collins was born July 17, 1872 in Alabama and died a year later on July 7, 1873.

Joseph Asberry Collins was born January 28, 1874 in Alabama and died June 14, 1883 in Tarrant County, Texas.

James Walter Collins was born June 28, 1876 in Arlington, Tarrant County, Texas, and died January 22, 1947 in Justin, Denton County, Texas. Walter Collins was a druggist, banker, member of the city council of Justin, Texas for a number of years. His wealth of wit made him a general favorite of kith and kin.

Mary Marshall Collins Splawn. On September 17, 1862 in the neighborhood called Paint Rock in Jacksonville, Alabama, a daughter was born to Marshall Reid Collins and his wife, Sarah Bostick Collins. They named her Mary Marshall: Mary was for her great grandmother, Mary Woods, the wife of Barbee Collins, and Marshall was for her father.

Her father, Marshall Reid Collins, was, at the time of her birth, a soldier in the Confederate Army. He was given furloughs for the Christmas holidays and for a period preceding Christmas in order to close out the year's farming and plan for the new year. He also got another furlough regularly in the spring to arrange for the planting of the crops. Mary Marshall's father was a Primitive Baptist and her mother a Methodist. Mary Marshall attended the services of both parents and was brought up in the Methodist Sunday School which she attended with her mother, brothers and sisters. After she was twelve years old, and before her thirteenth birthday, she accompanied her family and the families of three other Collins brothers of her father and joined another brother, Woods, in Dalias County, Texas.

These brothers leased a tract of land, about a section of which was tillable and were given the first year's crops in consideration for their breaking the sod. They averaged a bale of cotton per acre. Under the leadership of their brother, Woods, they bought a tract of land in Tarrant County not very far from the boundary line between Tarrant and Dallas Counties.

Four of the brothers and their families moved into new cottages which they themselves had built on this land. The four brothers, including Marshall, had built their residences near each other—two on the north of the lane and two on the south of the same lane. The boundary line separating the properties of the two brothers on the north of the lane ran north and south as did the boundary line between the brothers south of the lane. The four houses formed corners of a small quadrangle. Marshall was in the northwest house, Woods in the southwest house, and east of these two houses—something like two hundred yards—were the homes of Joe and Thomas. The lane running east and west was named Arkansas, families first living on that lane being from that state.

The Texas and Pacific Railroad was extended westward from Dallas to Fort Worth soon after the Collins families settled on Arkansas Lane. A station some twelve miles east of Fort Worth toward Dallas and two or three miles west of the Collins settlement was named Arlington. Woods Collins, brother of Marshall, built the first store in Arlington and drove back and forth from his farm for several years before he moved his family to the growing village.

Arkansas Lane and community became rather thickly settled. A school house was built and different religious denominations held services in the building once each month. The largest of these congregations was the Primitive Baptist. All the Collins brothers and most of their children belonged to this Primitive Baptist Church. When the Collins brothers and their families settled on Arkansas Lane, they were joined by numerous other settlers and provided school for their children and the church services just mentioned.

When the school opened in the fall of 1875, a beautiful girl of thirteen, Mary Marshall Collins, daughter of Marshall Reid and Sarah Collins was among those enrolled. She had made a good record in the school she attended in Alabama and in the Methodist Sunday School there. At Sunday School she was frequently asked to recite a psalm or passage of scripture that she had memorized the preceding week. In school she made a reputation in spelling and reading.

It was known as Tallow Flat, at the time. Only five families lived in this part county at that time and they lived from one to five miles apart. It was called Tallow Flat because of the plentitude of fat game. There were squirrel, deer, bear, wild cattle, and plenty of fat hogs, in spite of the fact that panthers and wildcats were plentiful also. People raised their own corn and potatoes and had plenty of home gade sugar cane syrup. Of course they raised enough cotton to buy clothing and shoes. The whole country was then covered with virgin timber. Mone of the timber had ever been cut except for building purposes. Thermoarest railroad was at Conroe, some twenty miles away. About 1880 or 1889 my father and the two oldest boys helped cut the right-of-way for the Santa Fo railroad from Conroe to Cleveland. The road bed was built with mules and slips. The people had to haul their cotton to willis in ox wagons to have it ginned and it took two or three days to make the trip. To the best of my knowledge and from the information that I can gather, this is a history of the family of John L. and Millie ann Collins. By request of some of my nephews and naphewr and niedes, I have tried to write a true record of the family. And I want to say, not boasting, that I am thankful that none of us boys were ever arrested or ever had to pay a fine. I hope that when I have passed away that it can be said that I did not even have an enemy. I hold no grudge against anyone and hope that I wall mot be foregotten by my family and by my church brethern and bistors. Or by my friends. I have my grave staked off and hope that my father helped bury the first one that was put there. This first grave was that of a little girl named Page. This comptery is large now, and the site is not far from the church known as Pilgrims Rest. This little church was first built of split pine logs, and in my boyhood was used as a schoolhouse. The first little grave was enclosed by a pine pole pen, and stayed there seven years before another ga grave was put there.

Written by your grandfather and uncle in the flesh and I hope your brother in Christ our Lord and Savior. May God bless you all.

Farewell.

After a long period of illness and being confined to her bed the Lord came at the appointed time and called our sister, Mary Luranie Davis, from this life on Docember 15, 1954. She left seven children and several grand-children, one sister and one brother, a host of kindred and friends. We mourn for her but we believe our loss is her eternal gain.

By: L. R. Collins THE COLLINS FAMILY

A full and complete history of the Collins family of which we are a part is difficult to write for the reason that prior to 1815, the date of the first record wherein we find the name of Stacey Collins, my grandfather, we are unable to obtain any records. Except for the fact that we know by this that he was in this part of the country at that time, we are unable to fix the time he came here. We find in the report of a government agent investigating Indian affairs that Stacey Collins was a witness before the agency, and we note that in this report the Indian agent refers to him as a man worthy of belief and an honorable, upright citizen. Next we find a record in the Federal Land Office to the effect that Stacey Collins, in December, 1818, secured patents to the land described as the West Half of Section 25, and East Half of Northeast Quarter of Section 26, Township 8 North, Range 12 West, located a few miles east of Ellisville, Mississippi, and in 1826 we find that he was elected County Assessor of Jones County, the first to serve after the county was organized.

The old family Bible that Stacey Collins kept, now in the possession of Jeff Collins, Attorney, Laurel, Mississippi, gives the records of birth of the family as follows:

Stacey Collins, born Oct. 18, 1776,
Sara Collins, born June 28, 1792,
Nancy Collins, born April 13, 1809,
Sara Collins, born Nov. 17, 1810
Betsy Collins, born Nov. 12, 1812
Vincen Collins, born Nov. 12, 1812 Vinson Collins, born Jan. 16, 181 Mary Collins, born June 17, 1817 Simeon Collins, born May 27, 1819 Peggy Collins, born Feb. 21, 1821 1814 Stacey Collins, Jr., born Aug 29th, 1823, Riley Collins, born Dec. 23, 1825 Jasper Collins, born Nov. 1, Newton Collins, born May 27, Warren Collins, born Aug. 24, Edwin Collins, born March 20, 1, 1826 27, 1830 24, 1833, 20, 1840.

The marriage records are not in this Bible, but Nancy, father's oldest sister, married John Riley, and some time about 1850 moved to Harding County, Texas.

Sarah Collins, "Aunt Sally" as we know her, married George Walters. Margaret (Peggy) married Jeff Welborn and another of her daughters married Van McManus. Aunt Sallie died in 1889 and is buried at the old Indian Springs Cemetery, a few miles west of Laurel.

Betsy Collins married William Thompson, and they moved to Texas along with the others some time about 1850.

Vinson Collins married Sarah Bynum. They lived their entire lives in Jones County.

Mary Collins married Robert Walters.

Simeon Collins married Lydia Bynum.

Peggy Collins married Benjamin Bynum.

Stacey Collins, Jr. married Allie Walters.

Riley Collins married Evaline Welch.

Jasper Collins married Gatsy Powell.

Newton Collins married Elizabeth Williams.

Warren Collins married Evaline Valentine.

Edwin never married.

John Riley and Nancy Collins had three children born before they moved to Texas. The two girls married men by the name of Fairchild. The one that married Sam Fairchild was killed by lightning, leaving a son Bruce, who played a prominent role in ridding Texas of the notorious gangs of thieves that infested that part of the country at that time.

George Walters and Sara (Aunt Sally) had seven children but four of them died in a few days of each other of a mysterious ailment, their father dying at the same time.

William Thompson and Betsy Collins had two boys, Stacey and Robert. Betsy died a short time after they moved to Texas, about 1850.

Vinson Collins and Sara Bynum had two sons, Harrison and Clay, and two daughters, Emaline, (Dump" as we know her) who married William Sumrall, and Mandy who married William Harper. Harrison died during the Civil War at Pensacola, Florida, and Clay died in the latter part of 1940. Uncle Vinse took an active part in political matters and represented the county in the constitutional convention of 1866 which met to repeal the ordinance of secession, and was a member of the legislature in 1870. He fought the bill to create the Mississippi Valley Corporation, organized for the purpose of buying the swamp and overflow lands that had been given the state, saying that it was a scheme to defraud the state which subsequent records indicate was true. He voted for the grant of 40,000 acres to the Mobile and Northwestern Railroad, (now GM&O) but voted against amendments proposing to increase the amount granted.

Paying taxes must have been a problem then as now, since we find him introducing a bill extending the time of collection of taxes in Jones County. After the death of Sars, he married Mrs. Susan Graves, relic of Joseph Graves.

Mary (Polly) Collins married Robert Walters, and they had three boys. We have no further information concerning them.

Simeon Collins, who married Lydia Bynum, raised a large family, most of whom moved to Texas about 1872. Uncle Sim died in Mississippi and is buried somewhere in the souther part of Jasper County. Four of the older boys were old enough to take part in the war between the States, and also took part in some of the events that made Jones County a name in history, and later went north where they were captured by the Union Army and sent to the Federal prison at Camp Morton, Indianan.

Peggy Collins, who married Benjamin Bynum, also raised a large family, many of them being well known citizens of Jones County at this time.

Stacey Collins, who married Allie Walters, moved to Texas, abong with Grandpa Collins and other members of the family about 1852, settling in Hardin County. They had four children.

Riley Collins died in New Orleans during the war between the States.

Jasper Commins, my father, who married Gatsy Powell, raised nine children. With the exception of two years, (1850-52) spent in Biloxi, Mississippi, their entire married life was spent in Jones County.

Newton Collins, did not marry until after he reached Texas in 1852, where he married Eliza Williams. They had several children, but none of them were known to any of us who remained in Jones County.

Warren Collins who moved to Texas with the others in 1852, raised a large family. Of the eleven children, seven of them were living a short time ago. He died in 1926 at the age of 90 years.

Aunt Evaline died in 1921. Edwin, the youngest joined the Confederate Army and only lived a short time thereafter. He also went to Texas with the others about 1852.

Except for an occasional letter, little was ever heard of that part of the family that moved to Texas. Some of them came back on visits at different times, and cousin V. A. Collins, a son of Uncle Warren, is possibly the best known of any of them. V. A. was, and is yet a prominent leader in Texas, having served in the Texas Senate and was at one time acting Lietenant Governor. He made the race for Governor at one time and I believe was a cendidate for Congress at the time Congressman Dyer was elected. As to those remaining here, the families of Uncle Vinse and Uncle Riley, and the families of Aunt Peggy and Aunt Sally still reside in South Mississippi, or at least some of them. Uncle Riley is buried in the Chalmette National Cemetery a few miles below New Orleans, in having died in New Orleans while/the Uniton Army, which he joined after leaving Jones County.

Taking up the family of Jasper Collins, from whom we are directly descended:

Theodocia, the oldest, was born December 14, 1851, married Thomas Lyon December 20, 1870, and died March 29, 1929. She raised ten children, eight of whom are living at this time;

Martha, born January 12, 1854, married Joseph Melvin January 19, 1873. They had eleven children, eight of whom are living at this time;

Henry, born December 14, 1856, married Vina Herrington January 7, 1879, and they had eleven children;

Frances (Fanny), born March 16, 1858, married Lafayette Shows January 27, 1876, and died May 20, 1941. Of this marriage there were eleven children.

Sophronia, born March 16, 1860, married Brown Shows in February, 1884. They had five children.

Warren, born February 7, 1863, married Ree Tucker in 1894. They had three children.

Palestine (Pally), born March 31, 1865, married Albert Grantham January 15, 1885. They had nine children.

Ulysses, born December 11, 1867, died December 27, 1941. He first married Sarah Noble February 18, 1891, and they raised eight children. Sarah died and he later married Beulah Hosey. Four children resulted from this union.

Loren, born December 25, 1870, married Vivian Welborn August 29, 1901. We have two children and five grandchildren.

The Collins family in South Mississippi of which we are a part came to this part of the country in the early part of the mineteenth of century. In the year 1815 Stacey Collins, the writer's grandfather, appeared as a witness before a government egent investigating matters concerning the Choctaw Indians, and in his comments the government agent referred to him as a man worthy of belief and an upright American citizen. We next find a record in the Federal Land Office to the effect that Stacey Collins, in December, 1818, secured government patents to the lands described as the West half of Section 25, East half of Northesst quarter of Section 26, in Township 8 North, Range 12 West, located a few miles east of Ellisville, Miss., and in 1826 we find that he was elected the first county tax assessor to serve Jones county after its organization as a county.

The old family bible kept by Stacey Collins is now in the possession of Jeff Collins at Laurel, Mississippi, and in it is to be found the following family record:

The marriage records are not in this old family bible, but after considerable effort we learn that Mancy, the oldest sister, married John Filey, and that at some time about 1850 they moved to Harding county, Texas.

Sarah, Aunt Sally as we always knew her, married George Walters, her doughter Margaret (Peggy) married Jeff Wollborn and another daughter, Henrietta, married Van McManus. Aunt Sallie died in 1899 and is buried in the old Indian Springs cemetery, a few miles north of Ellistville.

Retsy Collish married William Thompson, and they moved to Texas along with the others some time about 1850.

Vinson Collins married Sarah Bynum, and they spent their entire married lives on the old Vinson Collins place about 9 miles north of Ellisville.

L'ary Collins married Robert Valters.
Sincon Collins mar ied Lydia Bynus.
Feggy Collins married Benjamin Lymna.
Stacey Collins married Allie Walters.
Whiley Collins married Evaline Welch.
Hasper Collins married Gatey Fowell.
Wewton Collins married Elisabeth Villiams.
Warren Collins married Evaline Valentine.
Edwin Collins never married.

A complete record of their families would be difficult to obtain. James Riley and Maney Collins had three children at the time they noved to Texas. The two girls married men by the name of Fair-childs, and the one that married Sam Fairchilds was killed by light-ning, lesving a son, Pruce, who leter played a prominent role in rididing Texas of the notorious gangs of thieves that infested that part of the country at that time.

George Walters and Sara (aunt Sallie) had seven children, but four of them died in a few days of each other at their home near where Laurel row stands. The father died at the same time, all of them of a mysterious ailment, and they are buried near the County Fair ground 100

William Thompson and Batty Collins had two boys, named Staccy and Robert. Betsy died a short time after they reached Texas in 1650.

Vinson Collins and Sarah Bynum had two sons, Harrison and Clay, and two daughters. Emaline (Pump) as we knew her, who married William Sumerall and Mandy who married William Harper. Harrison died during the Civil War at Tensacola, Florida, and Clay died at Laurel, Kiss., in the latter part of 1940. Jeff Collins and Judge F. B. Collins, well known attorneys at South Mississippi are the sons of Clay Collins. Uncle Vinson took an active part in political matters, representing Jones county in the Constitutional convention in 1886, which met to repeal the ordinance of secession, and was a member of the legislature in 1870. He opposed the bill to create the Mississippi Valley Corporation, organized for the purpose of buying the swamp and overflow lands that had been given the state by the Tederal government, saying that it was a scheme to defraud the state, the records later showing that his contention was correct. He voted for the grant of 40,000 acred to the Yobile and Northwestern Railroad (known as the M. & O.), but voted against amendments proposing an increase of the emount granted. Paying texes must have been a problem then as well as now, since we find him introducing a bill extending the time of collection of taxes in Jones county. After the death of Sara uncle Vinson married Mrs. Susan Graves, relic of the late Joseph Graves.

Mary (Polly) Collins married Robert Walters and they had three boys. No further information concerning them.

Simean Collins, who married Lydia Bynum, raised a large family, most of whom moved to Texas about 1872. Uncle Simm died in Mississippi and is buried somewhere in the southern part of Jasper County. Four of his oldest boys were old enough to take part in the war between the states, and also took part in some of the event that made for Jones county a place in history as the Free St ato of Jones. They later went north where they were captured by the Union Army and sent to the Federal prison at Camp Morton, Indiana.

Peggy Collins who married Benjamin Eynum, raised a large family, many of them being well known citizens of Jones county at this

Stacey Collins who married Allie Walters, moved to Texas along with grandpa Collins and other members of the family about 1852, settling in Harding county. They had four children.

Riley Collins died in New Orleans during the civil war, He married Eyeline Welch and they had five children, Wyatt, Boog and Newt, and Florence Walters, wife of Jesse Walters, and There Sumerall.

Jasper Collins, father of the writer, and who married Catsy Powell, had nine children. With the exception of two years (1850-58) spent in Biloxi, their entire married life was spent in Jones County.

Except for an occasional letter little was ever heard of that part of the fumily that roved to Texas. Some of them came back on visits from time to time, uncle Warren having made two visits back her, and his son, V. A. Collins, was hen a comple of times. V. A. Collins is probably the hest known of all of them. He was, and is yet, a prominent probably the hest known of all of them. He was, and is yet, a prominent leader in Texas affairs, having made the race for Congress at the time Congression Dyer was elected, and later made the race for Governor. His son, Hal Collins, also made the race for governor a rew years ago. He is also known as the owner, of Mineral Wells, Texas. V. A. was a member of the Texas Senate at one time, and later become liquidement governor. As to the members of the ismily remaining in Minsissippi, the families of uncle Vince and uncle Riley, and the families of aunt Forgy, and Sally and aunt Mory, are still well represented in South Mississippi. Uncle-Riley is buried in the Chalmette Hational Cometery at Hew Orleans where he died during the time the Union soldiers were in possession of the city, and which army he joined after loaving Jones county.

Two hours, and scuttimes longer, were required for the preacher to Jeliver his sermon-his measure as we know it to-day, and it was a serious breach of good manners for any one to leave the church while the sermon was being delivered. Exception was made of the mether with a small child who could not be quieted. Hymn books, without notes, were used instead of the song books we now have. The preacher would read the first two lines, ask a brother to "raise the tune" and after these were sung other lines would be read and sung until the singing of the hymn was completed.

The preacher of that day and time took his work seriously, as the members took their religion. The stories of the tible were to him the chronicles of events that happened, events taht happened just as they were related in the bible. The story of Noah building the Ark of Gopher wood, that whale swallowing Jonah, Daniel in the Lion's Den or the rich man entering heaven being like that of the camel passing through the needle's eye, were to him a true accounting of something that happened. No questions were asked and no doubts expressed. Ho began with the creation of the world, brough his congregation down to the tire of Noah and the flood, which to him was the first two thousand years of the earth's existance. From the time of the flood to the birth of Christ was, according to his reasoning, the second two thousand years, and from the birth of Christ until the end of the world was to be the last two thousand years. To have clammed that the cearth had been in existence for millions of years, and that the time of the flood would have been rank henesy. Beginning with the creation of the Forld and Adam as the first man be preached of the glories of heaven and closed with a picture of hell as a place of everlasting punishment, and the abode of all who failed to turn away from their vicked ways. He preached membership in the church, baptism by emersion partsking of the Lord's supper and foot washing as being essential to salvation, and that none would enter and abide with the angels who did not subscribe to these tenets. There were no doubters allowed among the religious of those days. They either went to heaven after death or they were consigned to that bottomless pit to burn forever- a place they called hell.

We have seen the advent of the railroad, electric lights, moving pictures, radio, flying machines and the ato ic bomb. The automobile and many other useful inventions should be seen wherever we look. We have seen improvement in our educational system, and inour opportunities of earing a livelihood never dreamed of in the days gone by. To-day (1965) as we view the war torn countries throughout the world, the instruments of death that have been invented and the destruction of life now going on, we wonder if we were not better off then than now. They had less, required less, but lived more contented lives, and were nappier in every way. Their ideas were crude and they were a very ignorant people in the light of latter day ideas of ignorance, but they were honest and possessed a high standard of morals.

A century and a quarter is a short period of time in the history of our civilization, but a glance at the history of Mississippi at the time it was admitted to the Union of States gives us an idea of how far we have traveled in that period of time. At the time of admission Mississippi had only sixteen counties, Madison, Franklin, Wilkerson, Amite, Marion, Hancock, Mushington, Clark, Marran, Claiborne, Jefferson, Adams, Jackson, Lawrence and Tike, At the first session of the legislature after the state was admitted there were only twelve counties reprosented. The first session met at Washington in Adams county, near Matchez.

Looking back from 1945 it is interesting to note some of the ligislation enacted by this legislature. For instance, a special act of the legislature was necessary before a county could establish a poor house.
Warren and Pike counties were sutherized to erect jails and pillories.
Congress was memoralized to use its best efforts to secure the extinguishment of the Indian's title to the lands of the state. An act providing for the payment for slaves executed?under sentence of law, and and set preventing slaves from raising their own cotton was passed.

Also, it is worth of note here, and act was passed dealing with "hawkers, peddlors and retailers of spirituous liquors" called boot-leggers in this more enlightened day. But ovidence, novertheless, that the liquor problem was with us even then. In the governor's message delivered to the legislature in 1820 he refers to the yellow fover epidemic of the previous sugger, and attributes It to the fact that "banks of cecced from the Unoin, voting against secession. Mother only hadone brother, James Medison Fowell, but she had several sisters.

There was aunt Millie Shows, wife of Wade Shows, and who lived a few miles west of where Laurel now stands. Among her numerous descendents you will ring the Herringtons and the Flynts still living in Jones county. Then there was Aunt Sarah who married Abram Davis, in Patience who married Henry Seaman, Samantha who married Sam Owens, Caroline and possibly enother. These moved to Texas along with Grandpa Rowell just after the Civil war. Mother was born March 30th, 1830, and died March 11th, 1913, preceding father to the grave by only a fow months, he dying August 14th, 1913. Father died in Laurel, Miss., and mother in Moselle, Miss., and they are buried in front of the old family homestead about none miles south of Elliville, Miss.

Father lived until 1872 on a farm on Tallahoma creek, a few miles northwest of Laurel, Miss., and there all the members of the family were born, unless it was sister Thoodocia who might have been born at Eiloxi, Miss., since Father and mother made Biloxi their home at about the time of her birth. I confess I do not know. In 1872 father moved to a farm nine miles south of Ellisville and this was his home until his death in 1913.

It is over a century and a quarter since Grandpa Stacey Collins came to Mississippi, and while we have little in the way of public records tradition seems to establish the fact that at the time he came to the central part of the state another brother settled in the northern part and one in the nouthern part. I have met and converset with many of the descendents of these other two families and if family resemblance is any indication then certainly a close relationship done exist.

When grandpa Collins came to Mississippi few people resided in the state, and especially in South Mississippi. In fact, the census of 1860, forty five years after he came here, shows a white population of only 2,916 residing in Jones county, That it was a poor county then is evidenced by the fact that in 1671, while uncle Vince was in the legislature, Jones county's part of the state tax was only $929.00.

We presume that the people lived by raising their own foods, and from the abundance of geme, such as bear, deer, turkeys, etc. that filled the woods at that time. Many raised cattle and sheep, but these were raised on the open range, feeding them through the winter months being unknown at the time. Except for Mobile, where stock raisers drive their stock at different times, there was no market for what they raised. However, it had cost them nothing to raise it and anything they got out of it was net profit.

While the time intervening between the time grandpa Collins came to this country and the time our own memory of events began is largely a matter of guess, we are enabled to get some idea of conditions extising by our own memory of events as we have seen them ourselves. We know that during that time the opportunity of securing an education was very limited. In fact, the one room school house, with the one teacher schools belong mero to the era covered by our cwn times than to that covered by theirs. When father and our uncle and aunts were of school age they did not even have those advantages. The only achooling father had was a nine weeks term to which he walked a distence of nine alles from a point about one and a half miles south of where Spring Hill church now stands to a point in the vicinity of Coso, Jones county. However, notwithstanding this look of educational adventages, the people of that period were not lecking in their religious devertions. True, in this, as in education, apportunities of worship efforded by the fifferent dendrinations werein Keeping with the times and conditions than existing. If future generations chould happen to read this they mitht be interested in knowing that church goers in those days rode to church on horse back, rode in ox wagons or walked, although the distince might be several miles. The rule then was to hold church once each month, on a regular Sunday and Saturday before. The sects were no arranged that the men folked would sit in one side of the building end the women in the other side. Children set with their mothers, sometimes several of them on a blanket spread on the floor, where they would eat molasson cakes given them by the mothers which they would take from a small bag. This was the custom long after my own child-hood days, and I presure is still the custom in many places in the county.

JAMES COLLINS...is the direct ancestor of Mrs. Preston...He seems to have come from the Rutherford-Lincoln-Rowan County N.C. area....I base this on the Babers work I did in that area. The Babers Family came from N.C. to Barnwell and thence to Louisiana. In my Baber-Babers paper in Rutherford and Lincoln Counties N.C. I find the same O'Dom...Collins...Les...and other names in N.C. which show later in Barnwell including Dyokes.......The wife of this James Collins was dead when he made his will....We were unable to find her name on any deed as signing a dower in Barbwell...The Toney son in law, Benjamin Toney also came from same area in N.C. as I know from my Toney papers...... I imagine the Steinwinders came from the German settlements of Rowan or Lincoln Counties N.C. if they did not come direct from Pennsylvania.

James Collins of Winton Co. S.C. (Old name for Barnwell).. His will sg. Date is missing.....Pr. 9 Jan. 1790.... No wife is lasted. Children as follows : James Collins, my eldest son & Ex. THE COLLINS FAMILY

by: Loren R. Collins

A full and complete history of the Collins family of which we are a part is difficult to write for the reason that prior to 1815 (we appeared as a witness), the date of the first record wherein we find the name of Stacey Collins, my grandfather, we are unable to obtain any records. Except for the fact that we know by this that he was in this part of the country at that time. We are unable to fix the time he came here. We find in the report of a government agent investigating Indian affairs that Stacey Collins was a witness before the agency, and we note that in this report the Indian Agent refers to him as a man worthy of belief and an honorable, upright citizen. Next we find a record in the Federal Land Office to the effect that Stacey Collins in December 1818, secured patents to the land described as the West Half of Section 25, and East Half of Northeast quarter of Section 26, Township 8 North, Range 12 West, located a few miles east of Ellisville, Mississippi, and in 1826 we find that he was elected county assessor of Jones County, the first to serve after the county was organized.

The old family Bible that he kept, now in possession of Jeff Collins, Attorney at Law, Laurel, Mississippi, gives the records (Stacey born October 18, 1786, probably married 1808) of Sara Collins, born June 28, 1792

Namey Collins, born April 13, 1809

Sara Collins, born November 17th, 1810

Betsy Collins born November 12, 1812

Vinson Collins, born January 16, 1814 - came to Miss.

Mary Collins, born June 17th, 1817

Simeon Collins, born May 27, 1819

Peggy Collins, born February 21, 1821

Stacey Collins, Jr. born August 29, 1823

Riley Collins, born December 23, 1825

Jasper Collins, born November 1, 1827

Newton Collins, born May 27, 1830

Warren Collins, born August 24, 1833

Christopher Calhoun Collins, born February 24, 1835

Edwin Collins, born March 20, 1840.

The marriage records are not in this Bible, but Nancy, father's oldest sister, married John Riley, and some time about 1850 moved to Harding county, Texas.

Sara Collins, Aunt Sally, as we knew her, married George Walters.

Her daughter, Margaret (Peggy), married Jeff Welborn and another of her daughters Henrietta married Van McManus.

Aumt Sally died in 1899 and is buried at the old Indian Springs Cemetery, a few miles west of Laurel - north of Ellisville.

Warren was another child of Sara and George.

- Betsy Collins was married to William Thompson, and they moved to Texas along with the others sometime about 1850.

Vinson Collins married Sara Bynum. They lived their entire lives in Jones County, about 9 miles north of Ellisville.

Mary Collins married Robert Walters.

Simeon Collins married Lydia Bynum.

Peggy Collins married Benjamin Bynum.

Jr.

Stacey Collins/married Allie Walters.

Riley Collins married Evaline Welch.

Jasper Collins married Gatsy Fowell.

Newton Collins married Elizabeth Williams.

Warren Collins married Evaline Valentine.

Edwin Collins never married.

John or James Riley and Hancy Collins had three children born before they moved to Texas. The two girls married men by the name of Fairchild. The one that married sam Fairchild was killed by lightning, leaving a son, Bruce, who played a prominent role in ridding Texas of the notorious gangs of thieves that infested that part of the country at the time.

George Walters and Sara (Aunt Sally) had seven children but four of them died in a few days of each other of a mysterious ailment at their home near Laurel, their father dying at the same time. Sara later married a Parker, no children.

William Thompson and Betsy Collins had two boys. Stacey and Robert. Betsy died a short time after they moved to Texas, about 1850.

Vinson Collins and Sara Bynum had two sons, Harrison and Clay, and two daughters, Emaline (Dump, as we knew her), who married William Sumrall, and Mandy, who married William Harper. Earrison died during the Civil War at Pensacola, Florida, and Clay died in the latter part of 1940. Uncle Vinse took an active part in political matters and represented the county in the constitutional convention of 1866 which met to repeal the ordinance of secession, and was a member of the Legislature in 1870. He fought the bill to create the Mississippi Valley Corporation, organized for the purpose of buying the swamp and overflow lands that had been given the state by the Federal Government, saying that it was a scheme to defraud the state which subsequent records indicate was true. He voted for the grant of 40,000 acres to the Mobile and Northwestern Railroad (now the N & O) but voted against amendments proposing to increase the amount granted. Paying taxes must have been a problem then as well as now, since we find him introducing a bill extending the time of collection of taxes in Jones County. After the death of Sara, he married Mrs. Susan Graves, widow of Joseph Graves. (Clay and Mandy were children by his second wife.)

Mary (Polly) Collins married Robert Walters, and they had three boys. We have no furtherinformation concerning them.

Simeon Collins, who married Lydia Bynum, raised a large family, most of whom moved to Texas about 1872. Uncle Sim died in Mississippi and is buried somewhere in the southern part of Jasper County. Four of the older boys were old enough to take part in the war between the states, and also took part in some of the events that made Jones County a name in history, and later went north where they were captured by the Union Army and sent to the Federal prison at Camp Morton, Indiana.

Peggy Collins, who married Benjamin Bynum, also raised a large family, many of them being well known citizens of Jones County at this time.

Stacey Collins, who married Allie Walters, moved to Texas along with Grandpa Collins and other members of the family about 1852, settling in Hardin County. They had four childre.

Riley Collins died in New Orleans during the war between the states. He married Evaline Welch, and they had five children -- Wyatt, Borg & Newt and Florence Walters, wife of Jesse Walters; and Sabra Sumrall, wife of Frank Sumrall.

Jasper Collins, my father, who married Gatsy Powell, raised nine children. With the exception of two years (1850-52) spent in Biloxi, Mississippi, their entire married life was spent in Jones County.

Newton Collins did not marry until after he reached Texas in 1852 where he married Eliza Williams. They had several children, but none of them were known to any of us who remained in Jones County.

Warren Collins, who moved to Texas with the others in 1852, raised a large family. Of the eleven children, seven of them were living a short time ago. He died in 1926 at the age of 90 years. Aunt Evaline died in 1921. Edwin, the youngest, joined the Confederate army and only lived a short time thereafter. He also went to Texas with the others about 1852.

of that part of the family that moved to Texas. Some of them came back on visits at different times, and cousin V.A. Collins, a son of Uncle Warrent, is possibly the best known of any of them.

V. A. was (and is yet) a prominent leader in Texas, having served in the Texas Senate and was at one time acting Lieutenant Governor. He made the race for governor at one time, and I believe was a candidate for congress at the time Congressman Dyer was elected.

As to those remaining here, the families of Uncle Vince and Uncle Riley, and the families of Aunt Peggy and Aunt Sally, still reside in South Mississippi, or at least some of them. Uncle Riley is buried in the Chalmatte National Cemetary a few miles below New Orleans, having died at New Orleans while in the Union Army which he joined after leaving Jones County.

Taking up the family of Jasper Collins, from whom we are directly descended:

Theodocia, the oldest, was born December 14th, 1851, married Thomas Lyon on December 20th, 1870, and died March 29, 1929. She had ten children, eight of whom are living at this time. Of the family, besides the living children, there are 54 grandchildren and 59 great-grandchildren in 1942.

Loren, born December 25, 1870, married Vivian Welborn
August 29, 1901. We have two children and six grandchildren.
Virginia, the oldest, completed her college education at MSCW, and after teaching a few years went to Chicago where she graduated in law and since lived in that city - has twin daughters. Vivian married Clyde H. Matthews, now managing editor of the Jackson Daily News, and they have four children.

were married December 29, 1849, there are still living one of the nine children. The oldest of the five at the time this is being written being 88 years and three months, and the youngest age seventy-one years, three months and 18 days. The average/of the five living is now approximately 81 years.

Gatsy Powell was a daughter of John D. Powell, and came to Mississippi along with the Powell family from Macon, Georgia. Grandpa Powell was a Probate Judge of Jones County for years and was a delegate to the secession convention in 1860. We only know of one brother, James Madison Powell, but she had several sisters. Powell There was Aunt Millie, who married Wade Shows and resided near Dowell what is now Laurel, Mississippi. Aunt Garah married Abram Davis. powel Vowell Patience married Henry Seaman. Smantha married Sam Owens. Caroline, and possibly another. Aunt Sarah and Aunt Patience moved to Texas along with Grandpa Powell just after the civil war. Mother was born March 30, 1830, and died March 11, 1913, preceding father to the grave by about five months, father dying August 14, 1913. They are buried at the old home nine miles south of Ellisville.

Father lived until 1872 on a farm a few miles northwest of Laurel on Talahoma Creek and there MARI all members of the family were born. In 1872 he moved to a farm nine miles south of Ellisville, and there lived until the time of his death in 1913.

I have made no effort to get the names of the children of his brothers and sisters, there being too many of them.

However, I made out to obtain some of them and future readers might be interested.

Robert Walters, Dick Walters, James Walters and Sylvia Walters were the sons and daughters of Mary (Polly) Collins.

Sumrall: Frank, another son, married Mandy Geiger. J. M. (Mat) married Caroline Matthews. Morgan married Lucinda Sumerall. H.T. married Evaline Welch. Mancy married Ashley Weeks. Desdimenta married Leonard Lofton. While most of these names sound familiar, it is not generally known that there is any relationhip between them and the Collins family. Uncle Sim's four youngest children were not married when they moved to Texas.

Stacey Collins raised four sons, Eli, Herring, Richard and Warren. Uncle Riley was the father of Newton. Wyatt, Boog, Sabe and Florence Collins. Newton married Valia Mauldin. Wyatt married Mollic Jordan and now lives at Ellisville. Boog married Sally Suggs. Sabra married Frank Bumrall and Florence married Jesse Walters. All raised large families, most of them still living in South Mississippi.

Uncle Newton Collins did not marry until after he moved to Texas. However, he raised several children, the names unknown. Uncle Warren raised a large family, but I only have the names of Edward, F.C., Philip and V.A. They are for the most part residents of Texas, and except for V.A., very few of them are known to any of us.

Collins came to Mississippi, and while I have been unable to get much in the way of public records, tradition seems to establish the fact that at the time he came to this part of the state, another brother settled in the Eorthern part of the state and one in the southern part. I have seen many of the supposed descendants of these other two families, and if family resemblance is to be believed, a family relationship evidently exists. H. Clay Collins, Myrtle, Miss., a one time state senator, and at present Sergeant at Arms of the State Ennerge, would pass for one of our immediate family, and I knew a William Collins in Hancock County who was the very-image of Boog Collins. I remember Christopher Collins, a first cousin of father's, and who was raised by Grandpa Collins, and my recollection is that he often visited with these other two families.

When Grandpa Collins came to Mississippi, few people resided in the southern part of the State. In fact, the census of 1860, forty-five years later, showed a white population of only 2,916 then residing in Jones County. That it was a poor country is evidenced by the fact that as late as 1871, while Uncle Vinse was in the Legislature, Jones County's part of the state tax was only $929.00. We presume the people lived by raising their cwn foods, and from the abundance of game, such as bear, deer, turkeys, etc., that filled the woods at that time. Many raised cattle and sheep, but these were raised on the range, feeding them through the winter being unknown at that time. Certainly there was no market for the things they produced, except the home market, and in some instances when herds were driven to Mobile and sold. While the time intervening between the time Grandpa Collins came to this country and the time our own memory of events begin is largely a matter of guess, we are enabled to get a very correct history of conditions existing by our own memory of the events as we have seen them ourselves.

We know that during that time the opportunity of securing an education did not exist. In fact, the one roon, one teacher schools belong to the era covering the times rather than theirs. When father and our uncles and aunts were of school age they did not even have these advantages, the only schooling father had being a nine weeks term to which he walked a distance of nine miles. Eowever, notwithstanding this lack of educational advantages, the people of that period were not lackty in their religious devotions, although in this, as in education, opportunity for worship afforded by the different denominations was in keeping with the times and conditions then existing. older members of our family can recall these conditions as they found them when they grew old enough to begin taking notice of such. If future generations should happen to read this, they might be interested in Imowing that church goers in thos days rode to church on horse back, rode in ox wagons or walked, although the distance might be several miles. Services were held once a month on a regular Sunday and Saturday before. The men folks sat on one side of the church and the women folks on the opposite side. Children sat with their mothers, sometimes several of them on a blanket spread out on the floor, where they would eat molasses cakes given them by the mothers from a small hand bag. I can recall such even when I was a child.

Two hours, and sometimes longer, were required for the preacher to deliver his message, and it was a serious breach of good manars for any one to leave the church while preaching was going on except a mother with a baby that could not be quieted. Hymn books, without notes, were used instead of the song books we now have, and the preacher would read a couple of lines at a time, the congregation would sing them, and then he would read a couple more lines, and so on.

We have traveled far since the early days of our family beginning. We have seen the advent of the railroad, the electric lights, the moving pictures, radio, flying machines, automobiles and many other useful inventions since that time. We have seen improvement in our education system, and in opportunities of earning a livelihood never dreamed of in those early days. Today (1942) as we view the war torn countries throughout the world, the instruments of death that have been invented and the destruction of life now going on, we wonder if the people were not better off then than now. We are sure they lived more

ORANGE COUNTY VIRGINIA FAMILIES

BY BROCKWAN

(From Microfilm)

The pattern of immigration, while disorganized by political pressure, is definite. The St. Leger's settled in King and Queen County. Virginia. Florence St. Leger, who married John Brockman, had a brother Thomas who married Anne Plantagnet, sister of King Edward IV. Henry, grandson of John Brockman, married a Chilton, and the Sheltons became one of the early wealthy Virginia families, and had the first brewery in Albermarle County, Virginia. Elizabeth, sister of Sir William, married Robert Curteis, and the Curtis family came in droves to Virginia. John Curtis led immigrants from the Barbados and on one trip about 1670 he was shipwrecked and returned on a passing ship to Barbados, finally landing in Maryland and went over to the adjoining counties of Northumberland and Middlesex in Virginia and right up to Orange County with the Brockmans. The Robertson, Robinson and Potter families had their own sloop running from Barbados to Virginia and they became one of the prominent families of the state, and of course the Randolphs need no comment. Anne, daughter of James Brockman, baptized January 25, 1652, married Sir Miles Cooke, and the Brockmans of Virginia had land transactions with the Cooks in Louisa and Orange. They intermarried with the Henderson (Joseph Miles Henderson) and a daughter of Joseph COLLINS married John Cook. Julian, daughter of Henry Brockman (d. 1573) married Thomas Broadnax, and this family settled in Virginia. Thomas changed his name to May and later to Knight in 1738. Henry Brockman registered into Maryland and with his adventurous career, it is not curious that he did not marry till late in life and that there was one child only, Samuel. (I discount the report that Henry was son of Thomas.) The family after his purported marriage to Rebecca Salmon lived in Maryland for awhile, where the son was born, and I think it most likely that Henry died there, and that Samuel came on over to Virginia with his mother who remarried, probably a Pettie, and he Samuel married Mary, daughter of John, who was grandfather to President Madison.

The Close ties of the Madisons, Sims, Petties and Brockmans is indisputable. The elder Thomas Madison, left a will November 4, 1674, recorded in Rappahannock where he leaves property to his godchild Rebecca Pettie, daughter of Robert Pettie. He left to his wife his real estate except the 300 acres he sold to Richard White, and a parcel sold to Richard Sims. The Sims and Petties intermarried in Orange as well as in Richmond county. The second Thomas Madison father of Mary, we believe patented his land in King William, later King and Queen in 1719 and Thomas Salmon in King and Queen 1727. Here we find Richard and Joseph Woolfolk, John Madison, William Mays, the Craddock family, all in King William and later cut off into King and Queen. The Madisons, Henderson, Woolfolks, Sims, Petties or Petty's all came on to Orange and had land adjoining, and the first mill of John Brockman was adjoining Petty's mill stream and I have fished and bathed in this old Mill race many times. When Richard Woolfolk, in anticipation of death in 1770, transferred land to John Burrus, John Henderson and Samuel Brockman, it is obvious that these three were getting their share of the estates to which they were entitled after the death of Joseph Woolfolk, father of Joseph of Orange who married Christian Bibb.

It is apparent that William, son of Samuel I, married Elizabeth Mason and this evidence has piled up, finally culminating into a decision when in Albermarle this year I discovered that William Mason Brockman, son of old William had witnessed a will, prior to the birth of the children of Ambrose Brockman, all of the sons of which carried Mason as their middle name. This leaves me to conclude, that Agatha, second wife of William Sims of Albermarle, was Agatha Robinson, born 1737, daughter of William Robinson and wife, Agatha Beverley, who were married February 17, 1737. The first of the Robinson family was John of Glassly, Yorkshire, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Christopher Potter Christopher was in Middlesex and his wife was Agatha, daughter of Bretram Obert. Colonel Christopher Robinson was a son of John and wife, Elizabeth. Again we have the Robinson and Curtis families uniting when Anne, widow of John Curtis, married Richard Robinson and in 1684 a deed from Richard and wife Amne to John Curtis, son by her marriage to John Curtis, Sr. Will of John Vaus September 8, 1691, names daughters Agatha and others and James, Averilla and Chichley Curtis children of "my loving sister Elizabeth Curtis by James Curtis." Also mentions nephew Christopher Robinson. Colonel Christopher Robinson was Secretary of State for the Colony of Virginia. He was brother to John Robinson, Bishop of London and they were sons of John Robinson of Cleasby. All of these lines down to John Roberson of Albermarle, who will was witnessed by Samuel and Caty Brockman, are proven. John Robinson of St. Mary's Parish, Spottsylvania, for nominal amounts transferred in 1744 and 1745, 400 acres to Joseph COLLINS, 300 to Thomas William COLLINS and wife Elizabeth then transferred to James Haley of Orange his 200 acres, and the deed is witnessed by several of the COLLINS BROTHERS. It is fair to assume that the mother of Joseph COLLINS (Will 1757) was a Robinson and this was a division of the estate. Benjamin and John Robinson settled in Albermarle and Benjamin was always on hand to give a bond when one of the Brockmans married.

To summarize the Robinson connection, I quote from authoritative sources: John Robinson of Sleasby, England, in Yorkshire, married Elizabeth Potter. It will be remembered that it was Mrs. Harriet Potter's slave Letty that poisoned Richard Sims. Elizabeth was the daughter of Christopher Potter. The fourth son of John Robinson, was John of Bristol, Bishop of London and envoy to Sweeden. He died 1723, leaving no children, but he devised his real estate to his brother Christopher who emigrated to Virginia. Christopher was in the first vestry book of Middlesex county in 1664. His wife was Agatha, daughter of Bertram Obert; his second wife was Catherine widow of Robert Beverley, who was daughter of Theo Home. The children of Christophere were:

John Robinson born 1683, became President of the Council of Virginia. Married Catherine Beverly, daughter of Robert, who was author of the History of Virginia.

The other children including Henry, Christopher and Benjamin. Benjamin son of Christopher was Clerk of Caroline County. He married a Miss King and had a son William, minister of Stratton Major Parish, King and Queen County, who married Agatha Beverly, February 17, 1737, daughter of Robert, and had Clara, who married James Walker; Ann who married Dr. John Ray and Agatha, who must have married William Sims, as his second wife, and she was born before the end of the first year of her father's marriage. To the wedding of Benjamin Robinson and Miss King there was born a son Joseph and Joseph had a son Benjamin who married Susannah Brock, and this Benjamin was executor of the will of his brother John and Samuel and sister Caty Brockman, were witnesses.

Dear Mrs. Brockman:

I sent in my application for membership in the D.A.R. and I need additional information to complete it. I think they are mixed up about Major Brockman. I will quote exactly from the letter they sent. Quote: There are two Major Brockmans who were living during the Revolutionary period - one the uncle of this Major Brockman, who married Jessie Jones and moved to Guilford County, N.C. Various records state that he was the man who rendered the Revolutionary Service. The Major Brockman who married Mary Patterson, his nephew, is the Revolutionary ancestor on whom Mrs. Lebo has filed her papers and she is claiming for him the service that has been thought to be that of his uncle.

Since there is so much confusion as to the identity of the Major Brockman who rendered the service claimed, it is our suggestion that you file a new set of papers on the record of John Brockman, father of Major Brockman, for Mrs. Lebo to which her dues and fees can be transferred. Mrs. Lebo's line, of course, would come through Major, born Dec 18, 1760. John Brockman served as a soldier, North Carolina". Unquote.

Your book, Virginia Will: and Abstracts, has Major Brockman, born in 1755, as the son of John Brockman and Mary Collins. The John Brockman who married Amelia Martin was Major Brockman's brother. There's no record in the book that John and Amelia Brockman had a son, Major.

I thought maybe you could help me straighten me out. If I should file a new set of papers, claiming that Major was John and Amelia Brockman's son I have no claim whatsoever to prove it.

I hope this won't be too much trouble for you, but I just don't understand their statement.

Thanking you very much, I am

Sincerely yours
Gussie Brockman Lebo

The next we find George Gayden is where he signs the Oath of Allegiance 22 May 1778 in Nattues Estrict, Granville County, North Carolina. It is evident that Nancy Gayden went with her husband George Gayden as we know that their third child, Agrippa Gayden was born in South Carolina so we know she must have been with him when he took the Oath of Allegiance.

The next we find that Nancy must have died and George Gayden married Lois CoLLINS, daughter of Davis and Elizabeth COLLINS 4 Dec 1782, in Granville County, North Carolina.

We find that George Gayden is a signer of an indenture in which John and Catherine (ColLINS) Gayden are selling land to Elizabeth Collins, the widow of Lewis Collins. A short history of what we know of Lewis Collins is in order.

Lewis Collins signed a petition 17 Jan 1770 in which the inhabitants of Island Creek are praying for a road, etc. It was in this same District in which he signed the Oath of Allegiance 22 May 1778, in Granville County, N.C. Both of these can be found in N.C. State Records. Lewis COLLINS made his will 16th of Sept 1783 and it was proved May court 1783 in Granville, County, N.C. He left his wife who appears to have been a second wife, Elizabeth. The following children are listed Louis (Lois) Gaton; Betsey Robinson of Virginia, Edward Collins, Wiley Collins; Lewis Collins; Diannah Carter Collins. Now, to pick up where we find that Elizabeth Collins, widow of Lewis Collins of Granville Co., N.C. has purchased land from John Gayden and his wife Catherine. This is an abstract of this reocrd. Her

John Lowery, J. P. July 12, 1788 Of course this John and Catherine Gayden are half-brother and sister in law of George Gayden. The Elizabeth Collins is George Gayden; s mother in law and the two Collins boys are the borther in laws of George Gayden. I feel that there is a kinship between Lois Collins' father and the father of Catherine Gayden. That remains to be proven.

Betsy Gayden was willed the slave girl Claricy, the final link proving that she was the daughter of the George Gaydens who came to Amite County, Mississippi in 1801. So Lewis Collins who died in Granville County, N.C. and his wife Elizabeth are also my ancestors. In fact, 5th great gandparents on my maternal line. George Gayden who died in 1764 in Faranham Parish, Richmond County, Va. and his first wife Elizabeth are my 5th great grandparents on my maternal line. The Betsy Gayden married William Morgan and they are my 3rd great grandparents on maternal lines. I carry the Morgan, Gayden and Collins name twice.

COLLINS OF KING AND QUEEN

Prior to her death, Mrs. Virginia Baker Mitchell wrote a book on the Gholson Family which was published by Mrs. Margaret Scruggs Carruth, 3715 Turtle Creek Road, Dallas, Texas in 1950. This book dealt with the Gholson family and stated that the wife of JOSEPH COLLINS who died in 1787 was SUSANNAH LEWIS. She states that Sussannah was a close relative of the Zachary Lewis family and cites certain deeds witnessed by Zachary Lewis I and Zachary Lewis II and Waller Lewis who was a son of Zachary Lewis II born on January 1, 1702 and who married Mary Waller in 1725.

page 106 Zachary Lewis I came to Virginia in 1692; had two sons John and Zachary He also had daughters but all trace of them has been lost. Susannah Lewis Collins would have been about the right age to be the daughter of Zachary Lewis I. It is interesting to note that on January 6,1768 Susannah Collins was still alive and signed over her interest in her parental estate to her children prior to November 13, 1760, at which time William, Thomas and Lewis sold to their brother John all the interest which they expected to have in the real estate of their father, Joseph, at the death of ther mother Susannah. This deed was witnessed by Lewis, Sr. and Jr. and Wailor Lewis and several others.

THE GAYDEN - COLLINS FAMILIES by Mrs. Benjamin Robertson 5855 North Four Mile Run Drive Arlington. Virginia

The first George Gayden's estate was probated Richmond, Gounty, 7-2-1718
George Gayden, II, will proved the 5th September 1761 of the County page 108 and Farnham Parish, Virginia. Married first Elizabeth and had George, born 4 Jan 1739, Elizabeth born 19 June 1742. After Elizabeth died George Gayden remarried Hannah ? and had Winny born March1750, John Gayden born 19 April 1753. In George Gaydens
Will the following children are listed: Geroge Gayden, Elizabeth Nixon, John Gayden, Winny probably died young. (The name is also spelled Gaden, Grayden, Gayton, Galden, Gaydon) John Nixon presented the will into court and it is likely he is the husband of Elizabeth Gayden Nixon.

George Gayden born 4 Jan 1739 is mext found in Orange County, Wirginia in which he purchases 100 acres of land on the west side of Mine Run from Nicholasporter and wife, Sarah in Oct 1772. No wife is mentioned. In Sept. 1775 George Gayden and his wife Nanny sell this 100 acres in Orange County, Virginia to William Cave.

John Gayden son of George GAyden born 19 April 1753 North Farnham Parish, Richmond County, Virginia.d 1764 son=of George Gayden and Hannah ? He is a half brother to my 4th great grandfather George Gayden who went to Amite County, Mississippi.

He married 9 March 1773 Catay Collins, daughter of William and Elizabeth (Bashaw) Collins, in Orange County, Va. He gave his place of residence as St. Thomas Parish. John and Catey evidently moved to S. C. to be near the parents of Catey. Their records have been pieced in various ways. Their children:

George Gayden born S.C.

Sarah Gayden born 14 Feb 1774 Kershaw County, S.C. died 20 June 1849 in Carroll County, Miss. Married Jesse Duran.

Abner Gayden born in S.C. died in 1803.

but he is listed in a "GAyden History" compiled by Robert A. Love.)
William Gayden born 16 April 1784 Lancaster Co., S.C. died 5 July 1815.
Married Tempsy Titus Pipkin. (Mr. Robert A. Love's ancestors)

George GAyden, Jr. born in S.C. died in 1818. Married Francis Rutledge. The 1810 census of Lancaster Co., S.C. shows 2 George Gaydens and 2 John Gaydens as heads of families (None of these are children of my George Gayden of Amite Co., Miss.)

Uriah C. Gayden age 62 in 1850 (1788) born in S.C. Married first Miss McWaters; 2nd Malinda ? Went to Lumpkin County, Ga.
Elijah Gayden age 60 in 1850 born in S.C. died 8 Jan 1863.

11. Spencer Gayden age 55 in 1850 (1795) born in Lancaster Co., S.C. married first Mary ? 2nd the widow of his brother George Gayden who died in 1818, Frances Rutledge Gayden

12. Reuben Gayden born in S.C. 1798 died in Carroll Co., Miss. Married first Susannah Boyd, 2nd widow, Jane Hearn, (nee?) Note: that Sarah Gayden Duran went to Carroll Co., Miss. Also.

The 1790 census shows that John Gayden had 7 males and 3 females in the household. The tradition is that Catherine (Collins) Gayden outlived her husband and remarried again.

In the inventory of Lewis Collins. There is this mentioned "6 negroes to wit: Plimoth, Cupid, Fogg, Peter, and Plimeth and Amey. The last mentioned one now in possession of William Robinson of Culpepper County, Va." I wonder if this isn't the husband of "Betsey" Robinson of Virginia, daughter of Lewis Collins?"

George Gayden was not in the 1790 census. I have not been able to find where he and his family were, but he is listed in the 1800 U. S. Census of Kershaw County, S.C. But before a year was up he and his daughter Rebeccah (who already had two marriages) Wren left and were supposed to have been a year in Tennessee. In the Memoirs of Louisiana, however, a grandson Iveson Greene Gayden states that hey came to Amite County in Mississippi in 1801. They were listed in the 1805 U. S. Census which was taken prior to the farming of the County of Amite from Wilkinson County. "I. G. Gayden, Esq. is a prominent planter of East Feliciana Parish, La. but is a native of Amite County, Miss whree he was born in 1825, a son of Agrippa and Margaret (Lea) Gayden, the fromer born in S.C.

and the latter in Tennessee. Agrippa Gayden came west with his parents in 1801 and settled in Amite County, Miss. ten miles south of Liberty; several other families coming thither at the same time. They went overland to the muscle shoals of the Tennessee River; there they built a flat boat and floated down the river to Natchez, where they came across country to Amite County, Miss. Agrippa was born in 1799, a son of George Gayden, a native of S.C. and a soldier of the Revolutionary War, etc. (Taken from Memoirs of La.)

We have not been able to prove that Geroge Gayden has a service in the Revolutionary War. We have already shown that he was born in Virginia and not as stated in S.C. Many in East Feliciana Parish Louisia tells the same story. A book by Henry Skipworth on "East Feliciana Parish, Louisiana" Tells of the early pioneers of this area. In one part of the book it tells of a son of Edward Collins (brother of Lois Collins) who was killed by a drunken Indian. This was a son of Edward and Elizabeth (Lea) Collins, named Willie. His widow Elizabeth (Perry) Collins married Agrippa Gaydan before she reached Mississippi. Willie Collins was killed "enroute" He left 4 Collins Children.

George Gayden and Nanny had:

- Rebeccah Gayden, b. 27 Feb. 1774 probably born in Orange County, Va. married first Mr. Leith and had: Parthenia. Mr. Leith was from Va. Married 2nd Francis Wren and had John Wren; Elizabeth Wren, Francis Wren; George Gayden Wren. All these children born in S.C. Married third Thomas Batchelor 26 Dec 1805 in Amite County, Miss. They had: Victoria Carolina Batchelor; Marry Ann Harriet Batchelor; Bonaparte Batchelor; Rebecca Batchelor died 14 Jan 1836 Amite Co. Miss.
- 2. Gadesbey Gayden. He was a Justice of Peace in Amite County, Miss. I believe his wife was Polly, judging from a land record. He is listed as having children but I have not been able to learn their names. He died in 1841 in Amite County.
- 3. Agrippa Gayden was born 21 July 1779 in South Carolina. He married first the widow of Willie Collins, Elizabeth (Perry)Collins and had one child. I have not learned the name or sex of this child. He married second Margaret Muse Lea, daughter of David & Nancy (Clay) page 111

 Lea. Nancy Clay is a relative of Henry Clay (see Memoirs of La.)
 - Agrippa Gayden died 7 Jan 1843 in Amite County, Miss.

 4. Martha Gayden (Patsey) married Lewis Perkins 12 May 1808. The marriage bond will be found at Woodville, Miss.

George Gayden and Lois Collins had:

- 1. George L. Gayden. He married Sally Evans, daughter of Archibald and Charlotte Evans, of Claiborne County, Miss. This marriage bond is in Natchez, Miss.
- 2. Elizabeth Gayden age 65 in 1850 census of Amite County, Miss. was born in S.C. married William Morgan. She is the Betsey of Elizabeth Collins will which was proven 10 April 1804 in Kershaw County, S.C. Elizabeth Morgan's will was proved in 13 Feb 1854. The will was made 1 April 1852 in Amite County, Miss.
- 3. Diana Gayden married Charles Davis. I believe this is a record of their marriage: "At the River Amite, on the 23rd Mr. George Davis m. Diana Gayden 1808(?) (See: "Wills and other Records" Magnolia State Chapter D.A.R. Miss. Vol 2, 1947 issue)
- 4. Griffen Gayden married first Dorcas Wade at Natches. He married second Mary Ann (McClendhan) Cooper, the widow of Hugh W. Cooper.
- 5. Nash Gayden married Hannah Howard 6 June 1811 in Amite County, Miss. He died in 1812 leaving one child, Serefina (or Seresina) Gayden.

This is the way I think the children are in order. I could be in error as to just whom some of these children belong. I mean to the wives. They are all George Gayden's children.

WEDDED SIXTY-ONE YEARS

MR. AND MRS. WARREN J. COLLINS

happiness that covers a period of more than half a century. Such a tale is presented in the history of the married life of Mr. and Mrs. Warren J. Collins, who, for the past sixty-one years, have been husband and wife.

Sixty-one years ago, on December 19, 1854—long before the civil war—they were married in Jones county, Mississippi. Almost immediately after that they removed, to Hardin county, Texas, where most of their life was lived. Since that date the circling years have brought them much of joy and sorrow, too, has been thrust upon them. Warren Jacob Collins was born in Jones County, Mississippi, on August 24, 1833 and died at Hicksbaugh, Tyler County, Texas, on January 31, 1926. Tolitha Eboline Valentine Collins was born in Jones County, Mississippi on September 22, 1837 and died December 2, 1920 in Hardin County, Texas. She and her husband were buried in the Holand Cemetery, Hardin County, Texas.

They were descendants of the first Europeans that settled on the Eastern shore of the USA and like most of the early settlers they followed the parallels of lattitude West without varying much to the North or to the South.

My Grandfather Stacey Collins was born at Spartenburg, South Carolina on October 18, 1786, and my grandmother, Sara Anderson Collins, was born on August 29, 1792. They were probably married in Georgia in 1808 and migrated from Georgia to Mississippi in 1813 or 1814. The children of Stacey and Sara were: Nancy, born April 13, 1809 and married John Riley; Sary (Sallie), born November 17, 1810 and married, first, George Walters, and, second, a Parker; Betsy, born November 1, 1812 and married Robert Thompson; Vinson A., born January 16, 1815 and married Nancy Bynum; Mary, born June 12, 1817 and married, first, Robert Walters, and, second, Henry Parker; Simeon, born May 27, 1819 and married Lidia Bynum; Peggy, born February 21, 1821 and married Ben Bynum; Stacy, born August 29, 1823 and married Allie Walters; Riley James, born December 23, 1825 and married Desdimonia Welch; Jasper, born November 1, 1827 and married Gatsey Powell; Newton, born May 27, 1830 and married Eliza Williams; Warren Jacob (see above), born August 24, 1833, died January 31, 1926, and married Eboline Valentine; Christopher Calhoun, born February 24, 1835; and Edwin W., born March 20, 1840.

The old records in Jones County, show that Stacey Collins was the first Tax-Assessor in Jones County, Mississippi, and was appointed Captain of the 23rd Regiment, Mississippi Milita, on December 10, 1845.

My mother's father, Allen Valentine, was born in South Carolina, exact location not known, and moved to Jones, County, Mississippi, date not know.

My mother's mother, Cynthia Welch Valentine, was born twin to Mercy Welch, in South Carolina, and while they were infants their father, Bryant Welch, with his father Richard Welch moved from South Carolina to Jones County, Mississippi.

Warren Jacob Collins was married to Tolitha Eboline Valentine on the 19th day of December, 1854, in Jones County, Mississippi, and soon after their marriage, came to Hardin County, Texas, where they made their home until 1881 when they moved to Tyler County, Texas.

Stacey Collins, Jr. my father's brother, began planning in 1852 to move with his family, consisting of a wife and four sons, to Texas. In his planning to move to Texas the matter was discussed between him, my father and Uncle Newton Collins, another of Pa's brothers.

Newton and Warren decided to come to Texas with Uncle Stacey. That would have left their father and mother, Stacey, Sr. and Sara Anderson Collins alone in Mississippi, except for their youngest son, Edwin Collins. Edwin was born March 20, 1840, therefore he would have been only 12 years old when the older brothers began to plan their move to Texas.

Grandfather and Grandmother did not want to be left in Mississippi after their older sons left so they decided also to come to Texas with them and take their youngest son Edwin with them.

When they all decided to move to Texas (however Grandfather and Grand-mother did not at that time plan to remain in Texas-they were just going to visit for a while and return to Mississippi), Edwin asked if there were any Popular Trees in Texas. There were Popular Trees in Jones County, Miss, that were very stately, symetrical and beautiful trees. Mississippians proudly called them the Mississippi Populars.

Edwin learned that there were no Popular Trees in Texas, so he decided to take some to Texas and plant them. He was told the trip would take so long that the little trees would probably die before they arrived and he said he would plant two little Populars in gourds and let them take root before they started and then he would take them along with him in the wagon. This he did. It was said to be about 500 miles from Jones County, Mississippi to Hardin County, Texas. They had to make this trip in Ox Wagons. Stacey Collins, jr. had a wagon and yoke of oxen to carry his family and Stacey, Sr. and Sara Anderson Collins went with their three sons, Newton, Warren and Edwin in another wagon.

Of course, we can hardly think of any roads at that time anywhere. They did have roads leading from one state to another and from one county to another, etc., but they were not roads as compared to what we have now and, I think it took about 25 days for them to make the trip from Jones County, Mississippi to Hardin County, Texas.

They had some information before they went so they knew about where they were going. When they reached the place where they intended to settle, Pa with his wagon stopped at one place and Uncle Stacey Collins looked around and went about three or four miles farther and he stopped to make his settlement.

As soon as Pa picked out a building site for his house, Uncle Edwin went off several feet from it and planted his Popular Trees. One of the little Popu-

So, our folks and everybody else in that vicinity came to know that as the "Old Popular Tree Place." I suppose it has been 75 years since I have made inquiry about that tree; I do not know whether it is there yet or whether there are other Popular Trees growing around there, but we have always known the Place where Pa settled in Texas as the "Old Popular Tree Place."

Of course, when families moved into the woods to make settlements it was essential to make arrangements for houses and shelters.

There was no lumber to build houses from at that time, but there were millions of pine sapplings just the right size to make log houses out of poles notched and laid on each other and then covered with boards split out of large pines which made good shelters for the roofs. They would build a very good summer house, but to keep out the cold wind in the winter they had to cut large pines and rive out ceiling boards with a froe. They would have to cover each one of the cracks between the logs with a ceiling board and those boards were of considerable length, 8 or 10 feet long. When they got those ceiling boards nailed over each crack between the logs, they had a very comfortable house. To make it liveable of course they had to have a chimney at one end of the house and these were made by splitting chimney sticks and digging clay out of the ground and mixing it with water and putting that clay all around the chimney sticks and taper the chimney as it went up so as to make it draw the smoke.

I have seen wonderfully comfortable houses made in that way to shelter the pioneers in the new country. The early settlers took no thought of procuring land to settle on; they would just pick out a home-site anywhere they wanted to live. In fact, most of the land at that time was public land.

Before the Texas War for Independence in 1836, the State of Coahuila and Texas, which at that time belonged to Mexico, had passed a very liberal law on granting land to actual settlers that came to Texas. Every actual settler, the head of the family, was granted a league and labor of land wherever he picked it out in Texas, provided he would procure a survey and plat to be made of it and file it in the Land Office.

Many grants in Texas of one league and labor of land had been made to actual settlers, but most of such grants had never been settled on, however, after the Texas War for Independence all these titles that had been granted by the State of Coahuila and Texas were respected by the State of Texas. Many such grants were in all parts of Texas which had never been settled. After the State of Texas was organized, it began a system of issuing land titles in the name of the State of Texas and most early settlers that came here found public land anywhere in the State and usually they would procure a grant from the State of 320 arces to the head of the family for a homestead. That took a good deal of red tape and I suspect even a majority of the people who settled in Texas settled without asking anybody anything about it or getting permission to settle. There was no law against settling wherever you wanted to. So our folks picked out their own settlement and built their own log cabins and settled down to the life in the "Wild West" where they could roam the forest and kill wild game.

I was born at the "Old Popular Tree Place", but we moved away from that place when I was quite young. However, when I was older I saw the old house and it was a pretty comfortable old country home. I do not think all of the older children were born at the "Old Popular Tree Place", notwithstanding it was the first place where they lived. Pa was a great mover. It is my understanding that he moved to several different places and built two or three other log cabins before I was born, but finally he moved back on the "Old Popular Tree Place."

That is where my parents started on their long marital journey—a journey that ranks along with the longest marital journeys in the state. They were husband and wife 66 years before my mother died on December 2, 1920. That may not be a record for the length of a marriage, but it is rather outstanding.

One of the first things essential to a new settlement was to prepare a little farm and raise some com. The only bread these people in this county had at that time was combread. They had to go a long distance to get that until they cleared some little farms and raised their own com. My folks cleared a little farm very early, and the land being new and fresh, it was productive and ten acres planted in com would yield all of the com that any family needed during a year.

There were very few conveniences in Hardin County at that time, but some enterprising man from some of the older states who knew something about old water mills in the older states, came to Tyler County to a place about 12 miles from where Pa settled and found a little stream of ever lasting water running through the woods and he thought it would be an ideal place to build a mill to grind corn. He put a substantial damn across the creek from the high land on one side to the high land on the other side, possibly 200 yards from one end to the other and he damned up that water so that he could hold a very large head of water so he could turn it in on the floodgate of his mill to turn the two big rocks he placed there to crush the corn. This was not his invention, but I think he brought the idea to Texas and he put in a mill there that would grind as much as possibly 25 bushels of corn a day.

My mother was raised in Jones County, Mississippi, and it was a backwoods county at the time, but it was pretty well settled up and there were many people living around over the county. There were few conveniences in the county and the people were strictly pioneers and had to make their living out of the land and they lived very close to the land. The most of their houses were log houses as the new settlement in Texas was, but they had added some conveniences and made their homes very comfortable and had collected around them cattle, hogs and sheep. They had also collected many domestic fowls which they were raising for the market in the nearest city to where they lived-that is, Mobile, Alabama. ... My mother said that they raised turkeys for market at Mobile and she said they would drive those turkeys in droves of possibly 100. They would have to camp out two or three nights on the drive and at roosting time they would pull young sapplings down low enough for those turkeys to fly upon to roost. Then they would pitch camp and await the dawn to continue the drive. She said she had made a number of those turkey drives herself.

My mother was raised in a home of 11 children, but she was the third oldest. The children of Allen and Cynthia Valentine were: William Bryan, born April 27, 1833, died July 17, 1916, and married Matilda Coasts; Mary Maryella, born November 16, 1834 and married Hyrum Powell; Tolitha Eboline (my mother), born September 22, 1836, died December 1, 1921, and married Warren J. Collins; John Ira, born May 5, 1838, died September 16, 1916, and married Fannie Coats; James Morgan, born May 3, 1840, died March 8, 1901, and married, first Eliza Jane Coats, and, second, Mary M. Knight; Richard Hampton, born May 22, 1843, died August 30, 1924, and married Sarah Jane Coats; Savilla Jane, born February 10, 1846 and married Bud Huckabee; Elizabeth C., born April 14, 1848, died 1882, and married John Jones; Millard Fillmore, born May 21, 1853, died July 13, 1943, and married Ellen Dykes; George Andrew, born July 21, 1855, died December 23, 1937, and married Alice Welch; and Timothy Warren, born February 5, 1859, died November 9, 1931 and married Nina Summerland.

They had a very wonderful mother—Cynthia Welch who came to Mississippi from South Carolina with one of the greatest families among the Scotch people.

She was a direct descendant of John Knox who is one of the three great protestant preachers who broke the stronghold of Catholicism in world religion, John Knox was supposed to be one of the best educated men of his time and he collaborated with Martin Luther and John Calvin in breaking the bonds of Catholicism in the world.

He had one daughter named Elizabeth Knox and she married a very learned man by the name of John Welch. He became professor of Humanities at the University of Edinburgh and served in that capacity for a long time. He raised a son known as John Welch of Iron Gray Scotland who was know as the greatest orator who ever occupied a pulpit in that country. He and his family were harrassed and oppressed by the Catholics and finally two of his sons migrated to America. They brought a wealth of the blood of the Welch family to America, but when they reached America they did not have the culture and sholarship that they had in the old world. They were still leading people, but they just became as other people.

Bryant Welch, the father of my Grandmother, was born in South Carolina before June 1791 and died about 1830 in Mississippi. He went with his father, Richard Welch, to Bryan County, Georgia, around 1802, and about 1807, married Sally (Sabra) Martin. Their first six children were born in Georgia before the family started their move to Mississippi in January 1815. They moved first to Wayne County, Mississippi, where they were living in 1816 and then to Covington County, Mississippi, by 1820. The children of Bryant and Sally were: Martin; Betsy, married Asa Anderson, brother of Sarah Anderson, wife of Stacy Collins; Judith, married Drury Bynum; James, married Mary Valentine; Cynthia (twin), born December 20, 1814, died September 15. 1887, and married Allen Valentine: Mercy (twin), born December 20, 1814, and married, first, a Doris, and, second, John Chambers; the following children were born in Mississippi; Sarah, married Darell Valentine (brother of Allen); John Ira, married Katy Brynum; Timothy W., married Mary Elzy; Tabitha, married J. L. Welborn; and Desdmonia, married Riley James Collins (son of Stacy Collins).

Cynthia became my grandmother and from what I learned of her through my mother, she was a very wonderful woman. She learned to do all of the things that pioneers could do for a living, still she had all the inherited traits of great character and intelligence.

My mother was raised by Cynthia Welch Valentine and before she was grown she had gone through all the hardships of pioneer life and had been taught to do everything that pioneers did to seek out an existence in the remote country settlement. My mother had learned how to spin and weave cloth before she came to Texas.

I remember that she had some things that her mother had spun and woven and she showed me coverlets and counterpanes and she said she had her house full of those wonderful things she had made herself. It was fortunate for the Collins family that my mother learned this before she came to Texas.

When my father started life at the "Old Popular Tree Place" in Hardin County, Texas, the family that lived together there consisted of my grand-Stacey Collins, Sr., my Grandmother Sara Anderson Collins, Newton Collins, my father Warren J. Collins and the youngest son Edwin Collins. They were the ones who settled there and cleared land and made the first crop there; they were the original pioneers there. Everything went well with these settlers for about a year when my grandfather became afflicted with Erysipelas. He had seen cases of Erysipelas and told my grandmother he had it. He told her he did not think it serious or that it would cause any trouble but that some times it could be serious if it were not arrested and they decided they had better see if they could get him treated.

Only one doctor was known of within fifty miles of where they lived and that was old Dr. Work who lived at Town Bluff in Tyler County which was about thirty miles distance. They put a runner on a horse and sent for Doctor Work. When the messenger reached Town Bluff he learned that Dr. Work was gone to see a patient about 25 miles in the opposite direction. It was then late at night and the messenger knew he had better get Dr. Work to return with him so he waited until Dr. Work returned. About daylight next morning Dr. Work came in from his distant professional visit in the opposite direction and when the messenger told him what he wanted Dr. Work immediately ate his breakfast and got a fresh horse and began his journey to visit my grandfather. All this delay had caused the loss of a good many hours and during that time my grandfather had grown worse and died so when they reached home grandfather was dead.

Then another serious question arose. Hardin County was new and there was no cemetery in the county and they did not know where to bury him. Those good country folks who had lived in a thick settlement in Mississippi had always seen their dead buried in cemeteries where other people were buried and they were very much adverse to the idea of burying him out where no others were buried. It was remembered however that a year before grandfather died old man Josiah Hendrix who had come from Alabama with a family of almost grown children had taken sick and died and they had buried him out on a little pine hill near there. That was all they could do--so when grandfather died they went over on the little hill and dug a little grave about } feet from the Hendrix grave and buried my grandfather.

Of course these hearty pioneers were not to remain in mourning very long ntil they began their business anew and continued as before.

Christmas of 1854 was nearing—I know nothing of the courtship of my ather and mother and I do not know that they had become engaged and had greed to get married on Christmas of 1854, but from the circumstances that follows, I suspect that they had become engaged and that he had agreed to come to Texas and make a home and return to Mississippi Christmas, 1854.

The two families lived in different settlements in Jones County, Miss. about ten or twelve miles apart. I do know from what I have heard them say that they were well acquainted with each other and that they often saw each other. In about 1849 or 1850 there was a very good private school being conducted in the settlement where my mother lived. My grandfather Collins wanted to give his children all the advantage he could and since there were no public schools to send the children to my grandfather thought he would take advantage of the private school there and he made arrangements for my father to go over to where my grandmother lived and board with her family and attend that private school, so he boarded there with the Valentine family and attended that private school for four or five months. I do not know, but I suspect that is when the courtship was carried on mostly. Anyhow, he had gone to Texas and had settled and it appeared that he was making arrangements to go back to Texas after going to Mississippi and the natural inference is that it was understood that he was to go back for my mother on Christmas, 1854.

When he began getting ready to go back to Mississippi the question came up as to how he was to get back to Mississippi. There was no work going on in Texas and of course he had earned no money since he had been here and all he had done was the little work he had done about the place and help make the crop so he had then to look out for a way back to Mississippi.

He knew of some man who had come from Mississippi who was returning to Jones County, Mississippi, from Texas and he arranged with this man to go back in the wagon with him to Mississippi. That would by no means be sufficient plans to get my mother back to Texas after they were married and that question still confronted him.

After about 25 days the wagon from Texas reached Jones County, Miss. from which my father had been gone two years. Well, he was well known there and quite an active intelligent young man and it was soon noised abroad that Warren J. Collins had come back from Texas to Jones County. Everybody wanted to see him and showered him with congratulations and blessings. He had never been so popular before and they were arranging parties and socials for him every night and believe it or not, he was one enjoyed parties and socials. He saw my mother and of course she was one who was glad to see him and she thought she was coming back to Texas with him. It does not seem that she had contemplated anything else but that, but finally he had to break the news that he had no money to return to Texas with himself, and had no money to take her back, so she thought she had just as well forget about going, but my father had always had shifts against he time of need so he suggested that he believed he could borrow the money and she asked from whom. He said, "I believe I can borrow the money from Vince (this was my Uncle V. A. Collins for whom I was named).

Uncle Vince was a rather prominent citizen and was a great deal better fixed financially than most of his neighbors. My father finally mustered courage to go tell Uncle V.A. his plans and plight; that he had come back, from Texas to marry my mother and take her back, but that he had no money for the trip. Well, I have always been very grateful for the help he gave my father. If he had not assisted him under that stringent circumstance, my mother might never have come to Texas and I might not be dictating this story now.

My Uncle V.A. was a great humanitarian and listened to my father's plea and told my father, "Yes, I will help you so you can take your wife with you." Then he suggested that he not try to go back in a wagon but go to Mobile, Alabama, which was the trading point for Jones County and that he could find a steamboat going out from Mobile to points in Texas. He said for them to go to Chambers County by Steamboat and then procure horses to carry him to Hardin County. That was a great idea and of course my father was very glad to get to go back to Texas by steamboat. I do not know how much it cost or how much money Uncle V. A. furnished my father, but it must have been a considerable sum. It must have been well over $100 to pay the boat fare and the necessary expenses on the water and then pay his saddle horse transportation after he reached Texas to his home up in Hardin County. I suspect it must have been near $200. The trip was planned and my mother was notified that everything was in readiness and to her my father was a great hero and she would have gone with him to Texas if she had never see her relatives in Mississippi again.

Some of the relatives took their horses and transported them to Mobile. Ma had been to Mobile many times with her family when they went to market. She was proud of the Opportunity to go to Mobile and from there by boat across the Gulf of Mexico to Texas. They married on the 19th day of December, 1854. They spent Christmas there with relatives and planned their trip to Texas. As stated above, some of the kinsfolk took them to Mobile. If my mother had had a trunk she could not have brought it with her, but I do not think she had one or even a grippe. It was decided that she had a great many clothes to bring and they decided to take her mother's meal sack, which was spotlessly clean and tie it up and take it on horseback with them to Mobile. They reached Mobile late in the evening and learned they would have to stay there and get a steamboat out early next day to Wallisville in Chambers County, Texas. This was very interesting—they had to cross the Chambers County, Texas. This was very interesting-they had to cross the Gulf of Mexico and some times they would be on water out of sight of land. It was mid-winter and the sea was pretty rough and it was almost impossible for one to make his first trip by water without sea-sickness. They started out rather early from Mobile and sure enough the sea was rough and the boat was rather small and so it was tossed about from wave to wave until my mother became very sick. There were a good many passengers on the boat and I have heard my father tell the story. He said when they were six or eight hours out my mother became so sick that she could not even walk across the ship and he had to lead her to her room and put her to bed. He said there were many others who had not been on the sea before and he saw much sea-sickness. He gave his attentions to my mother and he said after she had vomited for a while and rested she began to recover and walk a little and before they reached Wallisville she had recovered sufficiently that she was able to disembark from the ship.

They were in Texas, but by no means at home. About sixty miles had to be traversed by horse-back. My father was never very timid. Anywhere he was he could always find out anything he wanted to know so he made inquiry as to where he could get horseback conveyance up into the north end of Hardin County. He was told that X. Wiggins who was a very well-to-do citizen there had some good horses and often used them to transport people to where they wanted to go so he saw Wiggins and told him he wanted two horses for his wife and himself to ride and a man to go along to bring them back so they drove a bargain and saddled the horses and left for Hardin County.

Wiggins went along himself and they took the meal sack of clothes along with them. Of course one traveling through the country then had to know in advance of a house ahead in the community where he could spend the night if dark should overtake him. If the weather was wintry weather he had to be housed to endure the cold. When on their journey they of course had no roads to speak of; they only had paths where sometimes probably they had driven wagons over, but when you think of going over one of those roads in mid-winter you know it was bad traveling. It was about 25 or 30 miles from Wallisville to Sour Lake and the first settlement on the road where they were traveling where they could find a house to spend the night and they were discussing whether they could reach another settlement before night. The next settlement was the little town of Hardin, the County Site of Hardin County at that time. There were four or five settlers living at the little town of Hardin.

Mr. Wiggins told them he did not believe they could reach Hardin by dark,

When they reached Sour Lake they were discussing this subject. Of course you have always head and read in the books about pioneers who lived on the outskirts of civilization being so anxious to see people who were traveling through the country that they would keep somebody out on the road to hail all passersby and invite them to stay all night. Well, this was literally true and when Pa and his guide came to Sour Lake one of the boys of the home was out to converse with them and let them know it would be dangerous for them to go farther that evening as far as it was to the next settlement. He told them it was 18 or 20 miles to Hardin and that there was no house on the way between. He told them also that they were very well fixed up at Sour Lake; that they had a very good house with plenty room and beds and that they could take care of their horses and that they would be glad for them to stop and spend the night with them. Well, that settled it, Pa said, "We made up our minds to spend the night." The man's name was Steve Jackson. He came to Texas some 18 or 20 years before and had applied to the State of Coahulia Texas for a league and labor of land. He had been granted a league and labor of land covering Sour Lake. Of course it was not considered to be worth much at that time. It was a nice little piece of land. After the oil boom at Beaumont in 1901 when they began drilling at Sour Lake in 1902, I have seen single acres of land in Sour Lake sell for $10,000.00.

Of course Steve Jackson was not rich when he lived there, but he had a nice place that was well improved. My parents and their guide fared well there that night. My father and Steve Jackson were not friends and acquaintances before that, but they were friends and acquaintances after that as long as they lived.

Next morning they saddled their horses and journeyed on to the Collins residence and arrived rather late the next evening. Of course, my relatives who were there were looking for them back, but they had no idea when they were going to arrive. They came in and took up abode there with Grandmother and the Uncles who were there. They started there on that 66 years of married life together. How wonderful it was that my father was fortunate enough to get a wife who knew how to manage his home and make a living on the small means that he had.

My father was an unusually brilliant man. He had very little educational advantages, still he was very well educated. You would not find one man from one hundred in the country that had the natural intellect or information that my father had. My father was a very honorable man and just in his dealings with his fellowman and I rate him about as smart a man as I ever knew, but he was a very poor business man and indeed a bad manager. If any man in the world ever needed a business manager worse than $V.\ A.\ Collins$ (your humble servant) it was $W.\ J.\ Collins$, the father of $V.\ A.\ Collins$.

Of course, a good deal of their married life was spent there together before I was born. They had been married 13 years when I was born in 1867. I cannot bear personal witness to the things that happened before I was born, of course, but I have heard much of it from my mother and after I was born. I lived there a long time and things were going on just as they had before I was born and I am sure many of the same things were the same as those things that were happening before I was born.

I suppose I would have to reckon that I was four or five years old before I began to take note of what was going on around the place and take cognizance of what belonged to the place and I will say that when I was five years old, that is, 18 years after they were married, they did not have any more than when they married except six children and an old spinning wheel and loom. I was the seventh child and when I was big enough to take note of what they had accomplished in the 18 years before I was five years old, that there could be no more found than I have just stated.

During all of that time land could be bought all over Hardin County for $1.00 per acre or less. Well, of course, one might have supposed that it would never be worth anything but an intelligent man might have known that all that forest of pine timber might at some time have a great value. Besides, that was the best stock range in the country at that time. It was no trouble or expense to raise cattle or stock on that range.

Of course they had to buy three or four cows to furnish the family with milk and had to buy a few hogs to supply the meat for the family. If they had taken care of the hogs and cattle for that 18 years they would have had plenty but it was not there.

With all due respect to my father, and I think he was a very smart and honorable man, it was not my mother's fault that they did not have anything. It was lack of management on the part of the head of the family.

I do not know when they bought the spinning wheel and loom, but I know it was very early in their married life because they had no other means of getting clothes for their children and there were six children when I was and the only way to get clothes was for my mother to spin the thread and with her superior knowledge of making cloth, she would sit down in front of that old loom and shuffle the shuttle from one side to the other until she had a great big piece of cloth in the loom to remove and cut into garments for the children to give them clothing to wear. Not only the children, she spun and wove her own clothes and clothes for my father. She never com-

My father worked at certain kinds of work. He made a crop of grain and sweet potatoes; he repaired the fences and did many other things around the place, but I cannot remember many things except what my mother did. My father killed the hogs and when they were killing hogs for bacon; he cleaned them and put them on the benches in the smokehouse and then my mother would go in and cut the meat up in pieces and salt it and place it carefully in boxes and let it stay in there until it had taken the salt and then she would take it out and hang it on sticks in the smoke house to dry. I think she did this because she wanted to because I have heard her say that she could not trust Pa to do it right because if he did not fix it right and it would spoil.

Yard after yard she would weave and maybe all seven of us children would get a garment out of the cloth. I know when I was five years old my entire wardrobe consisted of two long tail shirts. Ma wove the material and I suppose Pa got the long staple cotton some place but my mother wove the cloth and she would cut out the garments and with the old sewing needle held in her dear old hands she sewed the garments together so the children could wear them.

When she would get up in the mornings she took pains to milk her own cows. She used to say if two or three people were milking cows at the same time they would dry up and she would not let anybody else milk. She would go to the cowpen and milk the cows and would let the calves suck and afterwards would turn the cows out to the range and leave the calves in the pen. She would then take the milk to the house and strain it and put it up to cream. That milk was not touched any more until possibly that night before she went to bed. Then it was carefully skimmed and the cream put up into a bowl to go into the churning the next day. The skimmed milk she used for various purposes and sometimes we drank that. We always drank the whole milk when we wanted it.

In the evening late when the cows came up she would take her vessels and go to the cowpen again and would milk the four cows and afterwards she left the calves to suck all they wanted she would turn them out to go on the range that night and then again she would take the milk into the house and strain it up to cream. Next morning she would put about two gallons of milk up to churn and put the cream in with it to clabber. Usually in warm weather the milk would clabber before night and she would churn it and when the butter came she would take up the butter and wash it and would possibly have a pound of good homemade butter for the family's con-

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Strickland

Your names were given to me by Billie Helton of Andrews, TX. She said that you knew a great deal about all Collins lines and would be willing to exchange information. My grandmother was a Collins whose ancestors came, we think, from South Carolina by way of Mississippi, where her father, Thomas Franklin Collins served a term as attorney general. We've been unsuccessful in tracing back beyond Thomas Franklin Collins' father, Thomas S. Collins.

I enclose a resume of the Collins information I have, in hopes that you can tie it in with information you already have (we always live in that hope, don't we?). I'd be most interested to hear from you. Ms Helton said you were moving so I hope this reaches you before you move or will be forwarded to your new address, as I'd hate to lose an opportunity to make contact with someone with Collins information!

Sincerely
Belie Lipscomb

COLLINS-ZACHARY-SMITH-PARKER-----

A brief sketch of this Collins family--used the notes of the late Dr. Alexander Palmer Collins and son Grady Collins to search for legal proof. Had some other material from another source which proved incorrect. ---- Annie G. Parker - February 26, 1973

We Find:

Zachariah Collins went to England from Dublin, Ireland where he was to sail to America. Had brothers Henry, William and Abraham in Albemarl co. Virginia. When he arrived in Albemarl, found brothers gone to war. He went into an adjoining county in 1780, signed into the Rev. War, giving this record: Chesterfield Supplement-1st Sept. 1780-18 years age-5 ft. 6 in-Farm-Born Va. Albme.--place of res. Va. Albme.--Hair, brown--eyes, grey--comp. Swarthy--enlisted 18 Sept. 1 yr-6mo.

After the war he married Sarah (Sally) Palmer. Where did he get all that money? We think from her father Martin Palmer, probably came over on one of his ships. Anyway, he really traveled across the country from Charleston, S.C. His land there on Dove and Falling Creek, near Elberton, Georgia he sold this to Statham and finally settling in Jackson Co. Ga. owning land on Onocee far back into Franklin Co. named all his sons and daughters and two sons-in-law in his will 1824, Jackson County Georgia.

His son John Palmer Collins came to La. with the Tennessee men on a raft. While they were waiting at Baton Rouge for others-war of 1812-he was signed into the La. Militia-under Captain Samuel Leavens-just John Collins. After his discharge 10th of March 1815 he settled at Covington, La. and married Cynthia Zachary. To this union was born Calvin Dotson Collins October 1828.

Calvin Dotson Collins was a brother of Eveline Lenora C. Beeson.

After the death of his first wife, John Collins married Mary A.

Stringfield--see Stringfield line by Mrs. R.A. Magea Frankling.

Calvin Dotson Collins married Martha Jane Smith. Came to Rapides, part now Vernon Parish from Pike Co. Miss. He went back to Miss. to sign into the Civil War and was at Port Hudson with other brothers.

Martha Jane Smith Collins died soon after he returned from the war and is buried in Collins Cemetery at old home, Walnut Hill, Vernon Parish.

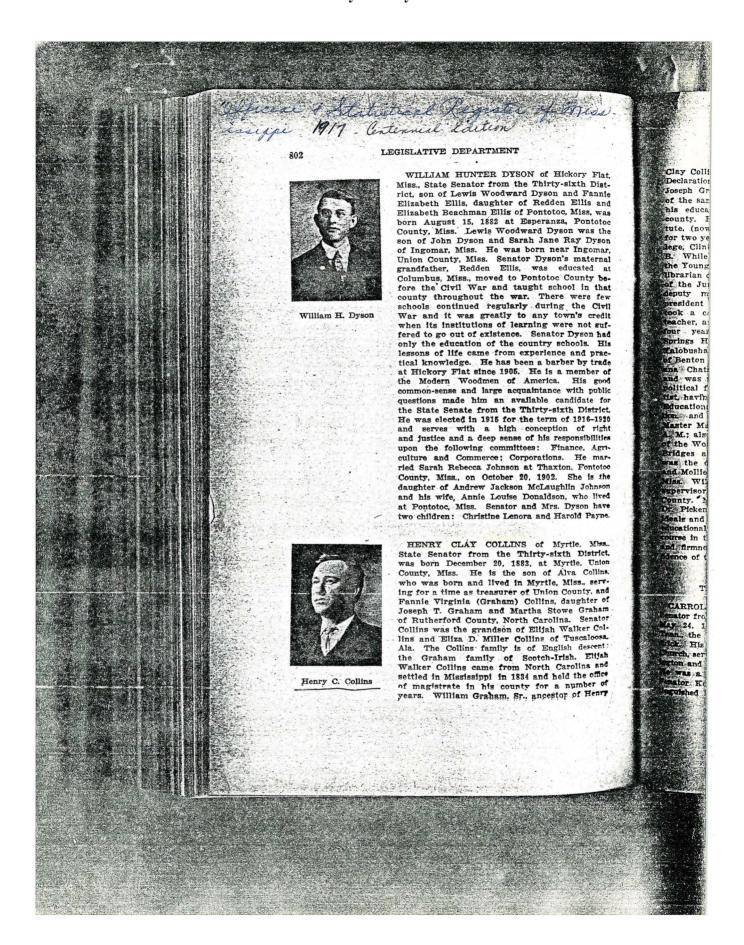

Calvin remarried twice and moved on to Dyers and Hemphill Creek eight miles from Boyce, Rapides Parish where he died in 1902.

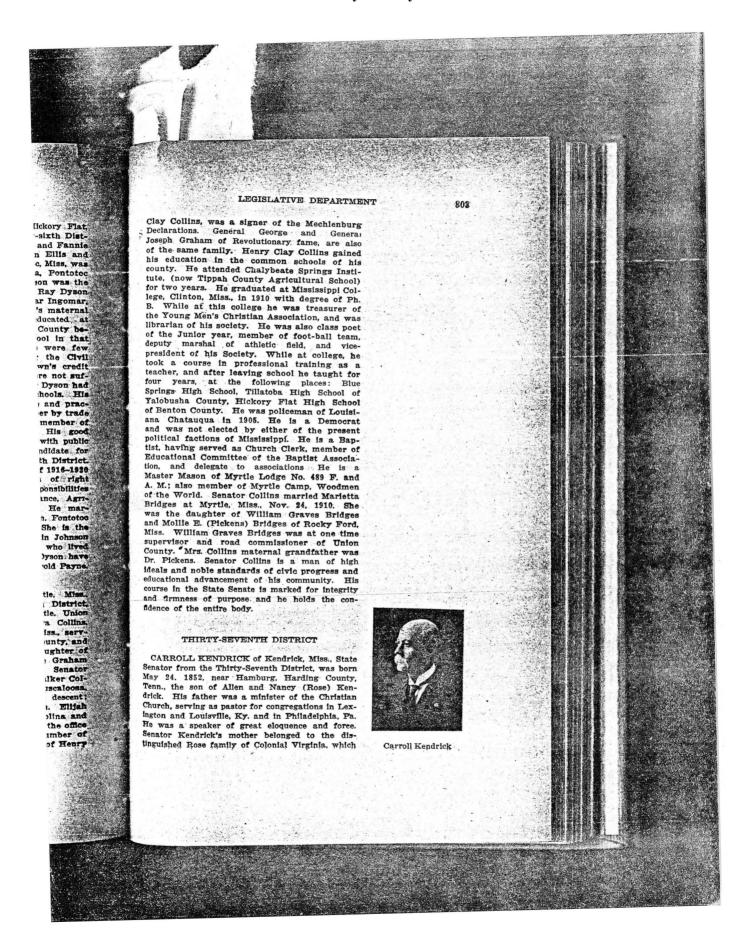

His daughter Martha Jane Collins married Joseph Jasper Garland - they were the parents of Annie Garland, who married Wm. Claud Parker, 1920. Three sons Jackson Garland Parker m Bessie Mae Cassady - Wm. Claud, Jr., m Pauline Eznack - Benj. Ardis m Shirly McCormick.

From La. Democrat: - Died at her residence in the Parish on July 15, 1870, Mrs. Martha Collins age 35. She was born in Pike County, Miss. October 24, 1834 and removed with her husband, C. D. Collins to the parish in 1859. She leaves a husband and three children.

Alexandria - Leesville-? papers: - COLLINS - At Hemphill in Cotile Ward, on Friday Nov. 7, 1902, Mr. C. D. Collins, father of Dr. J. E. Collins, aged about 70 years. The deceased leaves three children, one son and two daughters. His daughters are Mrs. Weeks of Vernon and Mrs. Garland of Boyce. He had been in ill health for about two years, Mr. Collins was an old resident of this parish. His remains were buried with Masonic honors at Walnut Hill, Vernon parish on last Saturday. He was a member of N. H. Bray Lodge, 208 F. & A. M. of Vernon parish. Mr Collins moved from Walnut Hill to Rapides parish many years ago.

HISTORY OF GEORGIA

dent of the Union Savings Bank of Augusta and one of the city's leading financiers and substantial business men.

After the completion of a course in the public schools of Augusta, Herbert C. Gray enrolled as a student in the University of Georgia and was graduated with the class of 1922, winning the degree of LL. B. In the same year he was admitted to the bar and has since practiced in this city. On the 1st of February, 1925, he formed a partnership with Rodney S. Cohen and their business is conducted in the Marion building under the style of Cohen & Gray. Both partners are well versed in the principles of jurisprudence, thoroughly qualified to cope with the intricacies of the law, and their clientele is growing rapidly.

In 1918 Mr. Gray responded to the call to the colors, enlisting in the United States army, and spent thirteen months overseas with the One Hundred and Ninth Machine Gun Battalion, which was attached to the Twenty-eighth Division. He was made sergeant of his company and on November 1, 1918, was badly gassed, receiving hospital treatment for nine months thereafter. He participated in four major operations, fighting on the Champaign-Marne, Aisne-Marne, Oise-Aisne and Meuse-Argonne fronts, and on August 11, 1918, was cited by General Pershing for extraordinary heroism at Fismes, France. He was discharged at Camp McPherson, Atlanta, Georgia, June 6, 1919, with a distinguished military record and afterward prepared for the bar. He belongs to the American Legion and the 40 & 8 Club of that organization. He is a member of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, the Augusta and Georgia Bar Associations, and is serving as president of the Lions Club of Augusta. He is allied with the democratic party and in July, 1924, was elected to the city council, applying sound judgment and keen analytical powers to the solution of municipal problems. Mr. Gray is a communicant of the Catholic church and is also connected with the Knights of Columbus. He holds a high place in the esteem of the citizens of Augusta and although young in years, has already advanced far on the road to success, while his ability and ambition insure his continuous progress.

HON. JOHN WELBURN COLLINS.

Hon. John Welburn Collins is classed with the leading lawyers of Canton and northern Georgia and for eight years has been a member of the Georgia legislature, rendering good service to his state. He was born November 3, 1878, on a farm six miles north of Waleska, in Cherokee county, and his father, Archibald Grice Collins, was a native of North Carolina. He made agricultural pursuits his life work and was a man of prominence in his community, filling the office of justice of the peace for thirty-five years. He was a strong adherent of the Baptist faith and served as a deacon of the church as well as superintendent of the Sunday school. During the Civil war he enlisted in the Confederate army and was a noncommissioned officer of the Forty-third Georgia Regiment. He was born in 1841 and his demise occurred in 1915, when he was seventy-four years of age. He was a son of Robert Collins, who was also a native of North Carolina and came to Georgia about 1846, settling on a farm in Cherokee county. Nancy Ann (Thompson) Collins, the widow of Archibald G. Collins, was born in Pickens county, Georgia, in 1850 and resides on the old homestead in Cherokee county. Her father, Louis Thompson, followed the occupation of farming and reached the advanced age of ninety-two years.

Mr. Collins attended the public schools of his native county and afterward enlisted in the United States navy, with which he made the celebrated trip around the world, starting on the cruise in December, 1907, and returning on February 22, 1909. He was made chief petty officer and was stationed on the battleship Louisiana during the trip. Before entering naval service Mr. Collins took a course at Reinhardt College, from which institution he graduated in June, 1902, afterwards teaching school for a time, and later entered the law department of Mercer University at Macon, Georgia, from which he was graduated in 1910. Since his admission to the bar he has engaged in general practice at Canton, Georgia, of which he became recorder, and is now filling the office of city attorney. He is an able attorney, well versed in all branches of the law, and his clientele is large and important.

On August 9, 1922, Mr. Collins was married in Canton to Miss Ora Willingham, a daughter of Dr. W. M. Willingham, who was born near Calhoun, in Gordon county, Georgia. Dr. Willingham was a physician of high reputation and served as mayor of Canton. Mr. and Mrs. Collins have become the parents of a son, John Welburn, Jr., born April 19, 1925.

Mrs. Collins received the A. B. degree from Columbia College at Lake City, Florida, and belongs to the Woman's Club of Canton, filling an important place in its cultural and social life. Mr. Collins is affiliated with the Baptist church and casts his ballot for the candidates of the democratic party. During 1913-17 he was assistant postmaster of the United States senate and in 1918 was called to the state legislature, of Georgia, filling out an unexpired term. He was elected for the full terms in 1920 and 1922 and his constituents showed their approval of his course by reelecting him in 1924, over strong opposition. He has exerted his influence to promote many constructive measures and makes his public spirit the basis of his excellent work. He was a member of the legal advisory board during the World war and was also active in the local drives. Mr. Collins has a high conception of the duties and responsibilities of citizenship and time has proven his worth.

WILLIAM REESE PHILLIPS.

For two decades before the Civil war and for many years afterward, William Reese Phillips was a prominent Georgian, active in public affairs as a merchant and manufacturer and well known in banking and other business interests at Atlanta from the close of the war until his death. He was born at Lagrange, Georgia, June 24, 1818, spent his boyhood there and prepared for a business career. From there he moved to Griffin, where he became prosperous and prominent in the social and political life of the community, serving for six years as mayor of Griffin. He is mentioned as one of the early settlers of Spalding county in White's Historical Collections of Georgia.

Two years before the war, in 1859, he moved to Savannah and engaged in the cotton business. During the war he owned the Newton Manufacturing Company, two cotton factories, the Okmulgee Manufacturing Company and the Heard County Mills, and these furnished large supplies for the Confederate government.

Mr. Phillips died at Atlanta, December 22, 1890. Several years before his death he had retired from active business but for nearly a quarter of a century was one of the vital factors in Atlanta's growth and development. He was one of the original members of the board of directors of the Atlanta National Bank when it began business in 1865.

Mr. Phillips was married in 1843 to Miss Mary Sanford Johnson. They left a large family of children and many of their descendants are among the well known people of Georgia.

GEORGE WASHINGTON WESTMORELAND.

Starting empty-handed, George Washington Westmoreland was trained in that hard school which develops aggressive, self-reliant manhood, and through the force of his character and the strength of his mental endowments has risen superior to circumstances, winning an enviable place in legal circles of Jefferson. Collins were among the first settlers. In-1756 a new board was appointed for Waccamaw Neck to lay out the road from the Waccamaw Ferry to the Cape Fear. They were: William Alloton, John Clark, John Waties, Archibald Johnson, Alexander McDoville, Charles Lewis, Josias Allston. A Ferry on the South Saula at Isaac Mazyck's plantation. One of these men were to be available at all times. William Whitesides, George Pawley, William Buchanan, Josiah Collins and Daniel Harry. They were the Commissioners.

Collins is an English name. page 278

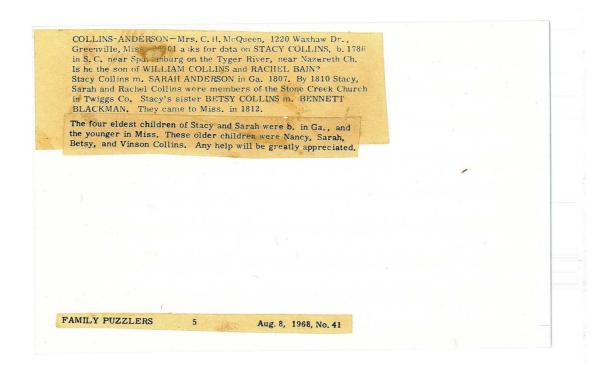

Robert Collins (1813-1856) produced 240,000 pounds of rice on the Pee Dee but the name of his plantation is unknown. The cash value of his farm was recorded at 1,600. which seems remarkably low and may be an error although he owned only nineteen slaves. He married Mary Jane Geier in 1837. She was the daughter of Samuel Grier and died at age 43 on 1-29-1856.

A Methodist Mission to slaves was held in 1815 at Collins plantation

History of Pike County Mississippi 1798-1876 by Luke W. Conerly

Fred W. Collins was Circuit Clerk in Pike County from 1870 to 1876
Chauncey Collins was from Salisberry, Conn. born in 1810. He came to Mississippi in 1840 and married Amelia, daughter of Elias Woodruff and Aisley Collins of Columbia, Marion County, Miss. in 1842. Settled on a little stream emptying in Magees Creek southeast of Tylertown and a little below the junction of Dry Creek with that stream. It acquired the name of Collins Creek from him. Here he established a tannery and shoe shop and lived the rest of his life. Had been a clock merchant for some years. He kept his hides in the tan vats for 2 years and made the most lasting shoe to be had. Highly intelligent, fine historian and conversationalist. His wife had 2 brothers - William who went to Florida and Seth Woodruff who went to Desoto Parish, La. Children were: Caroline Victoria, who married Daniel Tate; Julia E. who married J. A. Morris; Fredrick W., Warren N., Seth W., George H., Chauncey and Wesley.

KIMMEY-COLLINS-MIMS-Mrs. Ira A. Hutchison, 2623 W. Ninth St. Panama City, Fla 32401, needs help in tracing BEADY COLLINS and JOHN KIMMEY when and where were they married? JOHN migrated from Onslow Co. N. C to Washington Co. Ga. Was listed in the 1805 Ga. Land Lottery (424 BB) and the 1820 Census. Also listed in lottery was WILLIAM KIMMEY (390 BB). Were they brothers? (Wilkinson Co. Ga. Liddy (Lydia or Linda?) Kimmney, Admn. of WILLIAM KIMMNEY estate, dated May 9, 1814 - taken from files of old Ga. newspaper in the Ga. Gen. Mag. Apr. 1967, pg. 1594. 1850 census of Coffee Co. Ala. with family of JOHN KIMMEY, LINDA KIMMEY, 79 yrs.) JOHN KIMMEY'S 1st wife was BEADY COLLINS, who had a brother CREED COLLINS (1820) Washington Co. Ga. census. 1830 Dale Co. Ala. census). JOHN settled in Dale Co. Ala. in 1824, was listed in 1830 census, then in Coffee Co. Ala. in 1830 - 1850. After 1850, he moved to Newton Co. Texas with his 2nd wife HARRIET MIMS, and several children. FAMILY PUZZLERS September 18, 1969, No. 99

Mrs. Bussey Childs, Judge of Probate for Taylor Courty, Butler, GA 31006 also read the Finney query and added somewhat to his records. She cites HISTORY OF JONES COUNTY by Carrie Williams, in which an article on GEN. JOHN B. GORDON's mother appeared. She suggests that Finney's forebears descended from Jones County citizens. The Cox family was early in Jones County until they came to Taylor, which at that time and until 1852 was part of Talbot Co. Mrs. Childs included a Xerox copy of the constitution of "Church of Jesus Christ" formed by "a few scattered members of the Baptist order in Talbot County Georgia" on January 28, 1829. Two representatives of the faith examined then and performed as "helps" in the establishment of the Antioch Church - JAMES STEELY and HENRY HOOTEN. Charter members were:

Males
Revd. HENRY BELL
WILLIAM T. BURK
LEMUEL COX
WILLIAM RUSHIN
ICHABOD COX
TOM "of Cullor"
GEORGE PALMER

Females
EPSY ANN BURK
CAROLINE S. COX
CAROLINE POWELL
MARY COX
MARTHA PALMER
JUDY "of Cullor"

William T. Burk became the Church Clerk. Antioch Church is in northern Taylor County now on Ga.Hwy. 3 near the Flint River. The original church was evidently near the same spot as the present church "on CALHOUN'S ROAD near a spring" in the same lot of land named then.

ICHABOD COX's wife MARY b. 1773, d. 8-27-1845 is buried there. It is said that he is buried at Buena Vista. Lemuel Cox administered the estate of his sister-in-law Epsy Ann Burke, in Muscogee Co., GA around 1846. Her husband William I. Burke the first Church Clerk had died earlier. It is said that one of the Cox sons had served as a county officer in Stewart County for many years.

"I am compiling material for a county history and would appreciate Mr. Finney sharing additional information on the family with me. Gen. Gordon owned a large plantation near Reynolds in Taylor Co. called Beechwood, and lived here some. His ole home has burned. I have heard his daughter wrote the story of his life. He used to visit at old Antioch church which seemed to be across the Flint from the Gordon's home in Upson County," concluded Judge Childs.

Lemuel Cox m. Caroline Burke 6-10-1824 Jones Co., Ga.
William T. Burke m. Epsy Ann Collins Jones Co. 9-16-1819
Another account says that Lemuel married in T821 CAROLINE FICKLING.
She must have died and he married second Caroline Burke in 1824.
Was she a sister of William T. Burke?

EDITOR'S NOTE: Might the tradition be turned around? Might a Caroline Fickling have may ried a Mr. Burke in 1821, then widowed have married 2nd to Lemuel Cox in 1824?

LEWIS EATON PACK. 92 (EQUITY) CLERK OF COURTS OFFICE, PICKENS, S. C.

Lewis Reese states that about 15 years since, Lewis Eaton his fatherinlaw moved from Pickens Dist. S. C. to the State of Kentucky and carried with him a family of negroes, his slaves to which he was very much attached. Sometime after his removal one Bailey Barton went on to the state where the said Lewis Eaton was then residing, and seized the said slaves under a pretended claim & brought them back to Pickens District, except one which he left to wait on the said Lewis Eaton & his wife, who were very old and feeble. Some short time after his return to this state, the said Bailey Barton died & the said Lewis Eaton brought his suit in Equity against the admnrs. of the said Bailey Barton for the slaves thus taken from him & which slaves were at that time in the possession of his said Admnrs. Jane Barton & Pleasant Alexander. The suit came to a hearing at June term 1848, the said slaves were ordered and decreed to be delivered to Lewis Eaton, which was done by the defendants Jane Barton & Pleasant Alexander. After the delivery of said slaves to the said Lewis Eaton, his Solicitors who had the management of the said suit, refused to let him carry off the said slaves till their counsel fees were paid. Consquently the said slaves were left in possession of Watson Collins a soninlaw of the said Lewis Eaton, residing in Pickens District, till the said Lewis Eaton could return to Kentucky & procure the money to pay the fees and charges of his Solicitors. This caused the old man one or two trips to the State of Kentucky. He finally succeeded in paying off the Solicitors. The said Watson Collins then refused to deliver up to the said Lewis Eaton one of the slaves a girl then about 5 or 6 years old, till he was paid $500.00 for his pretended services in assisting the said Lewis Eaton in his suit against the admnrs. of the said Bailey Barton for the said slaves. Not being able or willing to pay this unjust and groundless charge, the said Lewis Eaton was forved to leave the girl in the possession of the said Watson Collins, and shortly after his return to Kentucky with the other slaves, the said Lewis Eaton departed this life intestate, in the State of Indiana. Lewis Reese states that soon after he reed, the notice of his Lewis Eaton death thru a letter from one of the slaves, carried off, he applied to the Ord. of Pickens Distr. for letters of Admir, on the personal estate of Lewis Eaton in South Carolina but the Ord, refused. Nothing more was done in the case till last year he renewed his application for Letters of Admir, and they were granted to him by W. J. Parsons Ord. of Pickens Dist. In the meantime the said slave remained in the possession of the said Watson Collins till he sold her to James E. Hagood of Pickens Dist, for the sum of $800.00. Whether the deeds for the lands conveyed to Watson Collins by Lewis Eaton were not made to enable him to sell the same for the benefit of the said Eaton. Whether he ever paid any thing for the said lands? How much money he reed, for Lewis Eaton of Esquire Gillespie, of North Carolina, and whether he ever paid it over. That the said James E. Hagood do answer whether he did not know when he purchased the said girl slave of Collins, that Collins had no title to her, and that she was claimed as belonging to the estate of Lewis Eaton . . . Filed April 27, 1859.

DEPOSITION OF NATHAN HAWKINS Madison County, Kentucky, Deed Book A, p. 82.

Collins

Deposition of Nathan Hawkins, aged 74, taken before George Adams and Joseph Kennedy, Justices of the Poace; was present about thirty-one or thirty-two years ago in Spottsylvania County, Virginia, when John Hawkins married Elizabeth Ellis, daughter of William Ellis, of Spottsylvania; William told John that for his marrying his daughter, he would buy and give him (John) two good nogroes and he should have equal share with his other children at his death; after they were married two negro girls came to the door and Mr. Ellis informed John he might have his choice. Mrs. Ellis answered No, she would not part with either of the girls; she intended one for a milkmaid and the other for a washmaid, but that he might have Millie, a young girl. John, after some conversation, said it was very little odds which of the girls he had; although she was the smallest she might soon grow up. Upon which Mr. Ellis gave John Hawkins the girl, and about four days after Millie was moved to John Hawkins' and there remained until after the decease of said Hawkins. In the administration of his estate Millie was appraised in said estate and the relict had her thirds allotted to her; that her father, Mr. Ellis, wished Millie not to be included in the appraisal but the Widow excepted against it and said Millie was John Hawkins' and should be in the appraisal and his children should not be wronged, and her father agreed to it.

Mr. Ellis was appointed Guardian and hired Millie with the other negroes for the benefit of the orphans. Some time after the widow married Robert Collins who brought suit against heirs of said Hawkins for said Millie but how it came out of Court this deponent knoweth not. The matter was submitted to arbitration of Joseph Brook, Edward Hardin and Thomas Colson, Justices of the Peace for Spottsylvania County, and the award was in favor of the orphans; but deponent further sayeth, Robert Collins said in his hearing he would give his bond to stand to the award, and further sayeth not. (Dated) July 24, 1790; Witnesses, George Adams and J. Kennedy; acknowledged and recorded 3 August, 1790.

HAWKINS NOTES, contributed by Mrs. Smiley Blanton, 200 East 66th St., New York 21, N. Y.

I am especially interested in John Hawkins, of Spotsylvania Co., Va., St. Georges Parish. He was b. between 1731 and 1733 as he came of age between 1752 and '54. He was the son of Nicholas Hawkins, Sr., and Elizabeth Long. Elizabeth Long was the daughter of John Long (Essex and Spotsylvania) and Elizabeth, his wife, whose mark was a J.

In 1758 or '59 John Hawkins married Elizabeth Ellis, the dau. of William Ellis (Gloucester and Spotsylvania) and his wife, Elizabeth. This information on the marriage of John Hawkins and Elizabeth Ellis was hard to come by but by great good fortune record A-82 Madison Co., Ky., Court of July 24, 1790, is a deposition made by John's brother Nathan with regard to the marriage of John and Elizabeth and has to do with a suit in regard to a slave named Milly. It gives the name of Elizabeth Ellis Hawkins second husband, Robert Collins. It is an amusing and interesting paper and worth hunting up. (See p. 56)

The roster of John Hawkins' siblings is somewhat obscure due to a queer contradiction in some dates, but there was at least James, Nicholas, Jr., Nathan, Alexander, and Catheron Mcdonel and Ann Pritchett, all according to the Will of Nicholas, Sr.

Of Nathan I have some additional data worth publishing, I think. He was born, according to his own statement, in 1716. He migrated to Madison Co., Ky., where he lived his life out. In a deed (but recorded 4 years after his death) his wife's name was Frances. His will was probated 4 Nov., 1794, Will Book A, p. 64, Madison Co., Ky. His children were Elizabeth (edw.), Lovel, Nicholas, Nancy (John) Schroeder, Nathan, who could be the man of that name from Mercer Co., Ky., whose revolutionary deposition is number 30457.

John Hawkins' wife, Elizabeth (now married to Robt. Collins), his three daughters and sons-in-law, and his wife's second husband are recorded signing paper. Spotsylvania Co. Deed Book K, Sept. 28:1784. He had died in 1764, leaving four daughters. One, Catherine, shortly disappears. The second, Elizabeth, married William Gosnoy (of whom more), the third, Ann, married Thomas Jones, and the fourth, Agatha, was the first wife of Benjamin Haley. All of this group moved to Kentucky from Frederick Co., Va., including the second husband of Elizabeth, Robt. Collins, but I do not have any record of Elizabeth Ellis Hawkins Collins after 1784.

William Gosney who married Elizabeth Hawkins, died in Bourbon Co., Ky. His property was divided in 1799. His two brothers-in-law and his wife's step-father served in the settlement of his estate. His property was divided among 9 children. John, the eldest, was of age, but the remaining eight were infants. His daughter, Salley Gosney, was born in Virginia in 1785. She married Asa Chapman in 1801, at the age of 16.

RECORD OF THE LIFE OF PETER RANDOLPH LEATHERMAN 1/31/1/20 654 (0.1/17.6)

(Now in the possession of Mrs. Bessie Hill, 601 Kirby, Shreveport, La. Mrs. Hill does not know what the relationship is, if any, between her grandfather, Thomas Leatherman of Claiborne Parish, La., and Peter Leatherman of Miss.)

My father, P. R. Leatherman, was born in Wilkinson Co., Miss. He married Miss Francis Ann Dunckley on her 19th birthday in April or May. He was five years older than she.

In 1853, September 24, I, Mary Emily Leatherman, was born. In 1859, my Kate was born. sister Kate was born.

After marrying, Father lived with Grandpa Leatherman two years, and taught the neighborhood school on Percy's Creek. Then he taught my grandpa Dunckley's girls and boys until 1860. Then he bought his father's old home in the Donegal neighborhood in Wilkinson County, Miss. We lived there two years, and he went to the war, fought to the close in the Virginia army, under Le. After the war, he sold his home, and bought Grandpa Dunckley's home, just 22 miles from Woodville. We lived there until after I was married on January 15, 1874 to George Chestley Netterville.

Two years later, when he was about 45 years old, father went to Tensas Parish, La. with my mother and sister, to manage a plantation for Mr. Beaty O'Kelley, who had rented two plantations, and was managing one himself. Later, father sold the Dunckley place to Mr. O'Kelley and moved to the Black River, La. plantation bought by Great Grandfather, John King, and inherited by Grandma Dunck-ley and her niece Emily King, who later on married Cousin Frank M. Leatherman.

My grandmother had died, and mother had inherited her part of that property.

In the meantime, my sister had married W. K. Collins in Louisiana. He was a Mississippi boy from Franklin County adjoining Wilkinson County.

Father lived on the property mother inherited only a few years, as they feared the overflow. He was fortunate enough to sell before that dreadful flood when the government had to feed the people over there. He took that money and bought him a home in Lincoln County, Miss. near Brookhaven, tried truck farming, but it cost so much to get it to market that he gave it up. He taught school at Utica, then went to Franklin County, Miss., bought a home there in the outskirts of a little railroad town, and taught school there and in Wilkinson county until about two years before he died, when he sold his home and went to our home, back in Wilkinson County, and there died of a cancer on his face.

All of this time his friends and relatives knew where he was, so I cannot imagine what you meant by asking me if my father was the Peter Leatherman who disappeared from Mississippi. I never heard of any other Peter Leatherman, and I am 🖫 a pretty old woman. There are a number of people in Wilkinson County who can swear to the statement.

Mary L. Netterville.

THE ODOM FAMILY

The Odom Family is very old, and has its origins as best this author can determine in England. A coat of arms is registered to the Odom Family (also called Oden, Odum, Odoms, Odean, O'Dom, Odium, O'Dam, Odeon, Odam, Odem, Odium, and other derivatives) as "sable with three knight's helmets argent". It is listed in the Burke's General Armory. Odoms also lived in early Ireland, Holland, and France, as persons of that name claim to have had their families to originate in those countries.

The first person of record whose descendents can be traced to the name of Odom is one William Odean, also spelled in old records as Odeon. He died in Norfolk County, Virginia, in 1661 and his will was probated on 16 Feb 1662. He had at least three children, and migrated to America after they were born. He must have come alone, as his will names no wife, and his two oldest children came to America after his death. Their fares were paid by a Richard Jones who received 300 acres of land for this service in 1665 (Cavaliers and Pioneers, page 445). His wife probably preceded him in death in England, and he died before he could send for his children. Two other Odoms came over at about the same time that William's two oldest children did. They were Abram (or Abraham) and John Odom (listed as Odium), and were probably his brothers, as they were of the same generation. They migrated in 1664 and 1666. William's children were William Jr., Ellen, and Richard. Richard was a minor under 17 years of age when his father died in 1661 (Lower Norfolk Antiquary), and did not come on the same ship as his brother and sister.

Richard Odom, the youngest son, died in 1727 in Chowan County, North Carolina. He had lived most of his life, I suspect, in Norfolk and Nansemond Counties, VA. He and his wife Anne had nine children. One of their sons was John Odom. Whether or not this is the John Odom who lived in Nansemond County and had a son William whose daughter married John Collins IV is not yet proven, but the family connections are known to have merged (Odoms and Collinses) in this county or New Kent County, VA. John Odom's son William had at least two children who lived at one time in Nansemond County, VA. They were Elizabeth Odom who married John Collins IV, and Benjamin Odom Sr. This brother and sister and their families moved from Virginia through North Carolina to Barnwell County, South Carolina, during their lifetimes. The Collins and Odom Families were closely connected for two or more generations in Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina, and some of them moved on into Richmond County, Georgia before 1790. See COLLINS FAMILY page 15

John and Elizabeth Odom Collins had at least eight children--all sons. Elizabeth died before 1790, but John Collins is listed in one of his sons' will (James) in 1790 in Barnwell County, SC.

Benjamin Odom Sr., son of William, and his wife (name unknown) moved to Colleton County, SC. They had at least five children who are listed in Benjamin Sr.'s will: George, Thomas, Elizabeth, Daniel, and Benjamin Jr. Benjamin Sr. furnished food and supplies to the Revolutionary soldiers in General Henderson's Regiment and Pickens' Brigade, and therefore is listed as a supporter of the Revolution and a patriot.

Abraham Odom's plantation and slaves were on Pipe Creek (now Hampton County) Granville County, SC. He bought it from Dennis McClendon who had bought it from Mr. DeLoatch (probably different from his son-in-law). All of Abraham's children shared equally in his estate at his death.

There were several Odom families living in Nansemond County, VA in the first years of the 1700s. By 1782, only one Odom remained—William. The first Odom of record in Nansemond County was John Odom. Whether this was the John Odom who was the son of Richard, or whether this John is the son of William Jr. is not known, but John was almost surely the father of William whose daughter married John Collins, since William was living in the same place one generation later. William's children moved to South Carolina.

Listed in his will in addition to his children was his sister Elizabeth Odom Zachary, widow of Benjamin Zachary. He left her $75 per year as long as she lived. In 1839, she was in Washington Parish, Louisiana, and on 18 Dec 1843 she gave power of attorney to Angus Patterson of Barnwell County, SC to handle her affairs in South Carolina.

The Odom Family name died out on our side of the family, since Benjamin Odom III was Ben Odom Jr.'s only son, and he had only a daughter. However, there are other Odoms within this same family from other branches scattered throughout the southeastern United States.

This information came from notes provided by S. D. Collins Jr., of Jackson, MS; will records of Barnwell County, SC; Burke's General Armory; Cavaliers and Pioneers; Lower Norfolk Antiquary; and Family Bible records of the Moses Collins Family. Prepared by Mary Collins Landin on 4 Oct 1981, the granddaughter nine times removed from William Odom, the immigrant to Norfolk County in Virginia Colony.

William Buch (Flarriett merrill) Mineron Staffard b. 1845 md. 1861 Frank Taylor How they met and md. I do not Know I would like to know what Frank Taylor did between the time he arrived in America as a boy of 12 Ad. 1858-59-when he helped put in Miss. Central R.R. thru Carrol Co. Miss. We know he served in CSA of first but then was sent to Canton, miss. to work for R. R. there, In an interview with Morning STAR (Greenwood newspaper) Martha Annabella Pleasant (Stafford) Herring told of how the Yankees treated the family during the Civil war. She lived with her sister *Minerva Jane (Stafford) Taylor until her father remarried 1865 and she went to liv with him and the 2nd wife at Stafford Wells 24 miles south of Winona. Minerva J. (Stafford) Taylor died at birth of her daughter, *Mary Ann Taylor August 22, 1958 Canton, Madison Co. Miss. Beter Stafford went to Canton and brought back the baby (Mary Ann Taylor) to live with him and his 2nd wife who had no children and his daughter Martha Stafford. Frank Taylor kept his 6 yr old son an' moved to Water Valley Miss. where he worked for R.R. He became Overseer of R.R. Shops at Water Valley, later buying property in Water Valley, farms in county of Yalobusha. He was truly a self educated man as I talked with members of the family about him and the told me he seemed a vory learned man. From his business transactions in the count of Yalobusha and Water Valley he seemed a very industrious man-How I wish I could talk with him and see how he did it all. My mother always wanted someone to trace his family back in Liverpool. But in my research I always start with the emigrant even if it is as late as one born 1340 England died 1902 Yal.Co. Miss. buried Water Valley, Miss. His wife's mother was Mary Ann Merrill b. Ala and her father James Merrill b. N.C. and I have traced his family back to Richard Merrill's arrival in America(N.Y.)1670s with this emigrants gravestone still standing an an Episcotal Church graveyard in New York city.

Frank Taylor had a CSA marker at his grave in Water Valley, Miss. Cemetery. He must have accepted his adopted State of Miss. quickly to his heart or his wife and her family convinced him they were right.

Frank Taylor and "inerva Jane Stafford had two children:
